LIBRARY

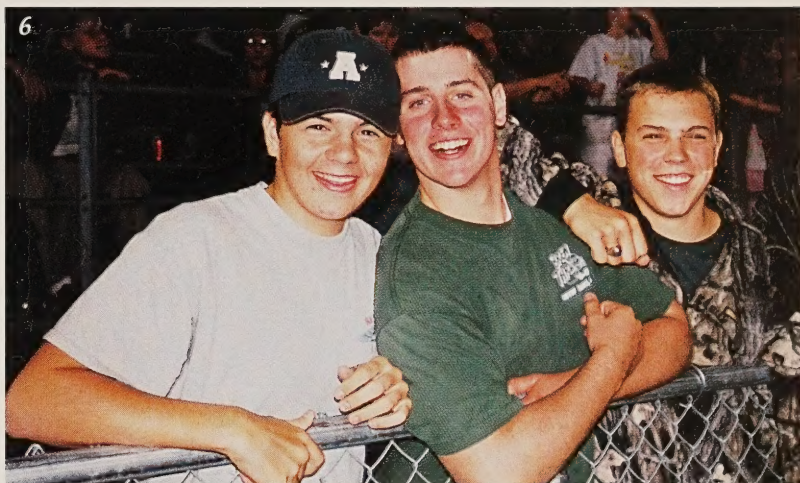

It's A Beginning...

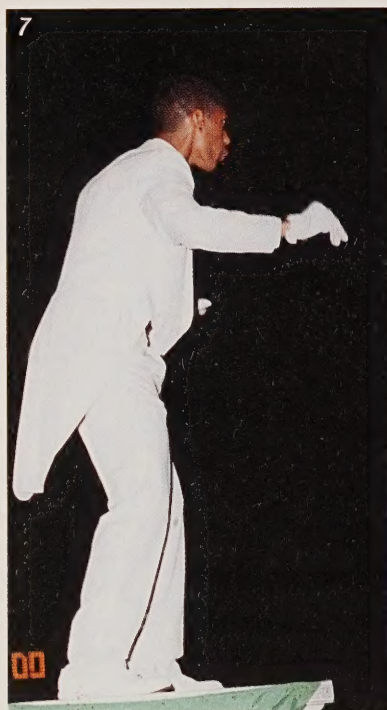

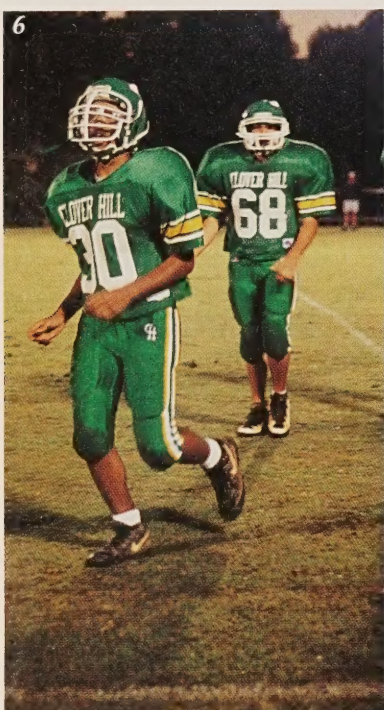

It's a beginning of the end. Students came back from a treasured summer to a new school, one with a larger office, differently numbered classes, and an improved library. Who will be able to forget Hurricane Floyd and our two days off? It's a rainy day spent playing football in the mud and racing down flooded streams. ❷ The ring ceremony came next with all the signing and turning that comes with officially becoming a junior. Juniors Chris Cruise and Keith Bachmann shake hands as Cruise gives Bachmann his ring. "The Ring ceremony is important because it symbolizes going from an underclassman to an upperclassman," Bachmann said. ❶ Homecoming was just out of this world. Each class pulled together to make it a great week. Senior Michael Marlowe shows off his senior spirit on Friday, toga day. "Spirit week was a lot of fun, and this is just one of the reasons seniors should've won the pep rally--just look at my senior spirit," Marlowe said. ❸ Seniors Cady Condyles and Katie Johnson hug before the powder puff game on that Thursday evening. "Pig tails, glitter, and unstoppable determination, that's what powder puff was all about," Johnson and Condyles said. Even though the juniors and seniors tied, both teams had a great time. ❷ It's a cold homecoming game with aliens, screaming fans, and a defeated football team. Senior Jessica Berg stood amongst the band during the presentation of the homecoming court and the crowning of the Queen, Katie Hohman. "It was exciting standing out of the field during homecoming and I felt honored to be chosen for court. Because my dad couldn't get to the game, my brother offered to be my escort," Berg said. ❹ The rest of the football season was a lot of fun with packed, cheering crowds supporting each point scored. Seniors Jason Ittner, Matt Farnham, and Winston Reid show off their school spirit at one of the many football games. "My senior year wouldn't have been as memorable without my buddies and Friday night football," Ittner said. ❹ Football wasn't the only fall sport, the volleyball, cross country, woman's tennis, golf, and field hockey teams all worked hard to complete great seasons. Sophomore Christy Shrom battles it out with a tough Thomas Dale defender. "This year's season was awesome! I scored my first goal," Shrom said. ❺ Junior Sara Heyl throws the ball up in the air, getting ready to serve to an opposing team. "I really worked hard this year in volleyball and it paid off because the team had a successful season," Heyl said.

"Though sleeping until noon was fun, I'm glad I'm starting my senior year...because it's the beginning of the end." -- Senior Tommy Price

"As summer came to a close, I began to look forward to the excitements this year would bring."

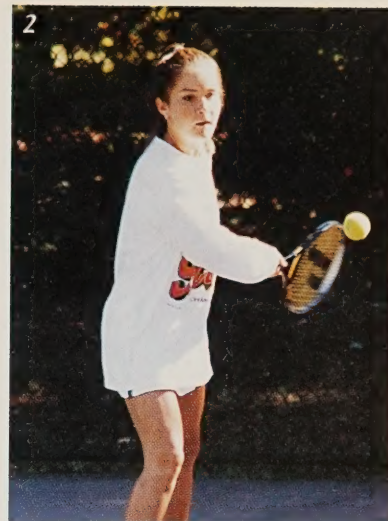

--Sophomore Sarah Crist

⑤ The seniors gave the juniors the ring ceremony and hosted the event. Seniors Kyle Swenson, Beth Cowan, and Stephanie Witt have a great time while giving out refreshments after the ceremony. "The ring ceremony was a lot of fun because I got to sample all the cake I was serving," Cowan said. ① Between spirited clubs, a winning marching band, and hustling football players, homecoming was an all around fun evening. The SADD float made its successful debut to the parade by winning the club category. Seniors Eric Davis, Mac Matthews, club president Natalie Shaban, and Sophomore Ian Handley hold the SADD stars and throw candy to the enthusiastic crowd. "Helping out on the SADD float, made me feel like a better person. I especially like breaking it down afterwards," Matthews said. ⑦ Senior Jeff Joyner leads the marching band during half-time. Joyner recalled with humor the now stereotypic band quote from the movie American Pie when he said, "That reminds me of this one time...at band camp...." ③ Junior Tyler McCall plays his trumpet proudly through another football game's half-time. "I love band!!" McCall said. ⑧ Seniors Phillip Rudd and Reid Rich hustle off the field during a time-out. The fall sports helped make autumn an even more memorable season. ⑥ The men's varsity volleyball team excelled in its program this year. Before each game the men huddled together in a circle to both pump themselves up and their ever-present fans. "We came together and bonded as a team to win," Junior Brian Talty said. ② The tennis team was compiled of a new group of players. Freshman Erin Modena hits the ball during warm-ups before an important district match. "Playing on the tennis team this year was a lot of fun, and I hope to play on the team for the next three years," Modena said. ④ Senior Molly Rosenberg waits for Senior Aimee Palumbo to finish getting her change out of the snack machine during lunch. "Aimee, you've had enough food for the day, so can I have your change?" Rosenberg asked.

"I like high school better because the classes are longer and we have an extra day to do homework."

-Freshman Olivia Carver

"I was excited for school to start because the sooner it began, the closer I was to getting out!" --Senior Kathryn Talbot

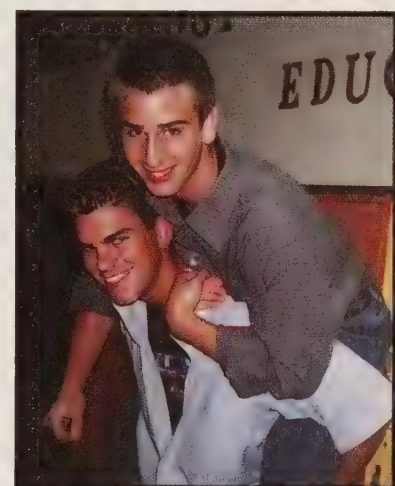

It's a party with friends on a Friday night. It's a red dress bought at the last minute on the day before prom. It's a junior-senior rivalry during spirit week. It's a student running to class after the late bell. It's staying up until midnight studying for your last exam. It's a lost voice after the pep rally. It's a sold out drama production followed by a standing ovation. It's a twenty minute wait to get out of the pit after school. It's a new after school job for extra money to spend on gas. It's a first date with the person of your dreams. It's a fight and a make-up hug with your best friend. It's a new trend seen and heard down every hallway. It's a fear of the Senior hall and loving it when you get there. It's four years of your life you won't forget.

Heat It Up

Finally, it was the beginning of the first summer of the millennium. This was the long-awaited time of year to let it all go, forget about those nagging teachers and grueling assignments, and start playing with the beach balls and sand. Summer was the best time of year, and students couldn't wait for the last bell to ring so they could start having fun. Parties, concerts, and trips to the beach helped kick off the much-needed break from work. 1 Stopping for a quick picture at Tokyo Disney, Senior Renee Watson smiles with her fellow travel mates on her vacation in Japan. "Japan was the best and Tokyo Disneyland was a lot of fun," Watson said.

2 To make their summer something to remember, Seniors Sarah Cary and Cady Condyles packed their things and headed to New York for Woodstock '99. "The whole Woodstock experience was definitely my favorite highlight of the summer," Cary said. 3 Relaxing at a restaurant, Sophomore Megan Rucker hugs Junior Jill Miles. "Going out all the time and chilling with all my friends was the best part of my summer," Rucker said. 4 Having a great time, Sophomore Megan Smith hangs out with fellow Cavs at a party during the summer. "This summer was the best, we were rockin' the parties," Smith said. 5 Spending time with her friends, Senior Catie Piehl goes to the beach. "I don't think my summer would have been complete without my people," Piehl said. 6 Sophomores Nicole Hoagland and Webb Estes hang out while celebrating a friend's birthday. "Summer parties are awesome and I love how everyone acts crazy!" Hoagland said. 7 Sophomore Stacey Piehl and Senior Jessica Whitfield smile as they enjoy yet another summer morning. "It was nice sleeping in and just bumming the day away," Whitfield said. 8 Before taking a great ride on the water, Senior Steve Evangelista looks on for some instruction. "It was my summer to be free, so I took every opportunity to do everything," Evangelista said. 9 While in Japan, Mr. David Tuskey and Gideon the Cat chuckle over the size of the characters. "It was nice to actually find something I'm as tall as," Tuskey said. 10 Hanging out on the couch, Juniors Megan Bailey, Amy Roberts, Katharine Schweighardt, Seniors James Stockton, Eric Steble, and Junior Jocelyn Drum take a break from relaxing to pose for a quick picture. "I made a lot of close friends this summer, and we had a lot of fun going out every night," Schweighardt said. From the looks of it, this summer was definitely a way for everyone to unwind, party, and not have to worry about what's due on Monday.

Starting The Millennium

With A Twist

On October fourth the senior class upheld Clover Hill's nineteen year tradition by presenting the juniors with their class rings. The ring ceremony was all the more memorable because the junior class will be the first class to graduate in the new millennium. 1 Junior Class Vice President, Amanda Castle, gives Junior Ashley Baster her ring. Castle said, "The ring ceremony was very special because the officers were able to give rings to the junior class, signifying that we will be graduating soon." The ring ceremony was an important step towards graduation for many juniors. 2 Junior Jackie Horak works toward getting all 101 turns, as Allison Mui turns her new ring. "I'm so glad that my friends were there with me to share the memorable experience of getting my class ring," Horak said. The ring ceremony helped bring the juniors together as a class. 3 Junior Amy Roberts signs her name to a friend's signature card. "This was a special event that I was glad to share with some of my closest friends," Roberts said. Juniors kept their signature cards to remember the event for years to come. 4 The junior class officers wait for the ceremony to begin. "It was an honor to present the rings to my fellow classmates," Junior Chris Cruse said. Each officer took turns in the distribution of class rings. 5 Junior Kelly McCloskey turns Emily Tuthill's ring as her mother looks on. "I am so glad that Kelly got to turn my ring because I will always have something to remember her by," Tuthill said. 6 Juniors Ryan Webb and Zack Wentz admire each others' rings. "Getting my ring turned was a good way for me to talk to friends I hadn't talked to in a while," Webb said. Most juniors got their rings turned in the commons after the ceremony but some continued the tradition at school the next day. 7 Principal Brenda Mayo participates in the ring ceremony tradition. "I found my first ring ceremony very impressive. All the rings were beautiful," Mayo said. Mayo started the ceremony by informing the junior class about the history of class rings. 8 Junior Lauren Trimmer turns Junior Brian Roberts' ring. "I believe in tradition and that is why I let my friends turn my ring," Roberts said.

... It's a turning point... It's a memory... It's a tradition...

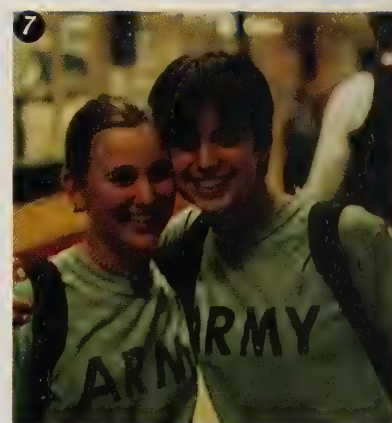

9 Junior Sean Nicholson admires his new ring. "The ring ceremony was important to me because I finally feel like an upper classman," Nicholson said. 10 Juniors Melissa Gladstone, Lisa Adams, Aislinn Cooke, Katie Tandler, and Mary Beth Blakey proudly show off their rings. "It was a great night with my friends, especially the celebration afterward," Cooke said.

Out Of This World

Each day of Spirit Week promised nonstop good times for all students who wanted to participate. 1 Seniors Molly Rosenberg, Katie Hunter, Kathryn Talbot, Aimee Palumbo, Alyssa Johnson, and Jenny Graves transformed into characters from Star Wars on "Outer Space Day". "It was as much fun making our costumes as wearing them," Graves said. 2 To get his class pumped up for the pep rally, Sophomore Kevin McGrath covered himself in green and gold from head to toe. 3 Sophomores Natalie Smith and Elisa Baily chat about how comfortable they were wearing their p.j.'s. "I was really happy that PSATs were on the same day, I was so unbelievably comfortable," Smith said. 4 On class distinction day, Freshman Ronald Forbes wore his Men in Black attire. "I make this look good!" Forbes said. 5 Focusing on work, Brian Barzoloski and Samantha Oliver sport their green clothing. 6 Showing their "muscles", Sophomores Bill Violante and Steven Coggins attempted to lead the class to victory at the pep rally. 7 On twin day, Seniors Jenny McKee and Becca Koepfle show their spirit by wearing matching outfits. "We love our fatigues, and it was the one day that we could be the same and not look totally stupid," McKee said. 8 Chillin' in the morning, Yolanda Norton, Melissa Navratil, Katie Johnson, and Mary Yanovitch are glad to just roll out of bed and head to class as is. "I love spirit week, it is such a good way to break up the routine of school work and class stuff," Johnson said. 9 Seniors Beth Head, Megan Wade, Jeff Joyner, and Cady Condyles got together for a quick pose in C++ class. "Getting to wear our togas after four years finally made me feel like a senior; it was long overdue," Head said. 10 Senior Class President Steve Evangelista added the final touches to the hall for the win in the contest. "I was impressed by the amount of work done by Senior Advisory Council, it all came together for the seniors to win the hallway at the end," Evangelista said. This exciting week of rearranging the student routines for fun and amusement included catching Z's in pajamas, showing spirit in green and gold, and dressing in the wild outer space motif. Class distinction day wrapped up the week for the entire school leading into the Homecoming festivities the following night. This night was a memory all in itself. Homecoming was out of this world, and everyone had a blast with the million starry dances. It will not soon be forgotten.

The hard work and long practices paid off in the end, for they helped to construct an ideal and memorable game. Rivalry, pride, and excitement filled the air as the players and cheerleaders switched roles. The juniors and seniors put in their mouthpieces, hooked their belts, and met on the field prepared for battle. After four long quarters, though, the game resulted in a tie. 1 Senior Travis Bacile pumps up the crowd as he screams cheers through his megaphone. "Powder Puff was fun because it allowed me to jump up and down and scream at the same time just like a real cheerleader," Bacile said. 2 Junior Lauren Claytor played hard offense against Senior Jessica Berg during this year's Powder Puff game. "I loved playing offense because it gave me the chance to score a touchdown, even though it was called back," Claytor said. 3 During halftime, Junior Cheerleader Nathan Bowman destroys the competition during a pie eating contest. "I enjoyed cheering so much that I can't wait to do it again next year," Bowman said. 4 Approaching the junior defense, Senior Debra Lee Letchford puts her moves on. "I thought there was a big improvement from last year because the senior class is a tighter knit group, and people took the game seriously." 5 Standing high above the crowd, Seniors Travis Deckert, Tobin Walker, and Bill Bolton cheer on the senior team. "Even though the game ended in a tie, cheering for Powder Puff was a lot of fun," Walker said. 6 Senior Dee Daniels blocks a runner as the juniors attempt to advance the ball up the field. "It was nice to see juniors and seniors put aside personal differences and focus on class spirit," Daniels said. 7 Junior Matt Kurz risks his life for the perfect stunt. "Getting the fans on their feet was my job, and I succeeded," Kurz said. 8 The junior offensive line stares down the opponent with a look of determination. "I enjoyed running over the seniors and making goals for my team," Junior Katharine Schweighardt said. 9 Seniors Becca Koepfle and Lindsey Mecca apply war paint during the pregame rush. "It was fun teaming together to beat the juniors," Mecca said. 10 Senior Stephanie Witt flies by the junior defense. "Since it is my senior year, I wanted to have the time of my life," Witt said. After all the commotion of the game, however, both the juniors and the seniors joined together for a celebration in the field house.

Homework was put aside in the anticipation of the biggest football game of the year and its accompanying festivities. Students swarmed into the stands as class floats were proudly shown off and the Cavalettes and cheerleaders performed their homecoming routines. The crowd had a mind of its own, going wild as the football players stormed the field. 1 Cavalettes Junior Amanda Emma and Seniors Jamie Downing, Holly Shepherd, Brittany Keene and Samantha Oliver ride down track to the 50 yard line in preparation of their exciting dance. "To dance during the parade was a privilege," Oliver said. 2 Sophomores Lindsay Briessinger and Jenna Sommer shout out the words to their class's song. "Participating in the Homecoming Parade is always a lot of fun, but since I had such a great partner this year it was even better," Briessinger said. The sophomores went on to win the float competition. 3 Shortly before the game, Sophomore Jan Pinkston joins her peers in rallying the crowd. "I enjoyed getting involved with SMAC and performing the dance for the sophomore float," Pinkston said. 4 Seniors Bill Bolton, Sarah Cary, and Tara Hanlin cheer for their class at the parade. "The parade gave me a chance to show my school spirit and class enthusiasm," Cary said. 5 The Varsity football team comes running in after the game. Despite the team's solid efforts, the Homecoming game was not one to be remembered for the victory. 6 Sophomore Natalie Smith is caught in a massive traffic jam which built up during halftime. "It was extremely crowded at the game, but I still had fun with my good friends," Smith said. 7 Freshmen Brooke Lassiter and Meghan Tucker work the crowd with their creative Men in Black routine. "We had two days to make up the dance, but I think everyone came together really well and we managed to pull it off," Lassiter said. 8 The Varsity Football players discuss their next play. Although the team came up short against the vicious George Wythe Bulldogs, they demonstrated great sportsmanship. 9 Art Guild displays vibrant creativity during the festivities. "They didn't play our song but our float turned out great," said Senior Candice Price. 10 With his fist raised high, Junior Eric Powleson cheers on the football team. "This was my chance to go crazy, so I went crazy!" Powleson said.

Walking into the commons the night of Homecoming was like stepping into a galaxy of slow dances and memories in the making. Homecoming Court, led by King Darren Durlach and Queen Katie Hohman brought in loud applause and smiles all night long. 1 Seniors Robert Braden and Jessica Whitfield take a quick break from the dance floor to talk about the evening. "Homecoming was great and being with Jessica made it even better," Braden said. 2 Seniors Claire Meyers, Brian Barzoloski, and Ashley Klein boogie the night away. "I went all out this year for Homecoming; I actually wore a tie!" Barzoloski said. 3 Sophomores Jonathan Meadows and Steven Coggins take a stand as their favorite song is played by the D.J. "I had a great time because I love to dance," Coggins said. 4 Junior Katie Bogardus, Seniors Nick Braun, Kyle Adams and his date dance to their favorite song. "I had a great night at the dance and going with a group made it a lot of fun," Braun said. 5 Homecoming Prince and Princess, Juniors Don Principe and Courtney Magill walk arm in arm through the crowd as Homecoming Court was presented. "Being nominated was a great experience," Magill said. 6 Seniors Jeff Joyner and Jessica Berg were honored to be nominated for such prestigious positions. "Being a prince was definitely the way my senior year should have come together," Joyner said. 7 Senior Chip Payne and his date enjoy themselves at his final Homecoming dance. "I had a great time at my last homecoming. It was so much fun," Payne said. 8 Seniors Jeremy Bell and Ryan Lockhart walk through the crowd with the rest of the Court. "Being a member of the Court my senior year was a dream come true," Lockhart said. 9 Senior Matt Roscoe and Junior Lauren Topham share a slow dance. "Homecoming week was the best week of my senior year," Roscoe said. 10 Homecoming King Darren Durlach and Queen Katie Hohman dance the traditional slow song set aside for them. "It was such an honor being Homecoming Queen and it made my senior year very special," Hohman said. Everyone's expectations were completely met, and it was a total success. Favorite songs were played and memories were made. Once again, the school pulled off another night in which everyone could look back on and remember how much fun, excitement and devotion from the dance committee went into it. The best is yet to come.

Follow the Yellow Brick Road...

The Wizard of Oz, presented by the theater department, exceeded everyone's expectations, both in attendance and sales. The first four scheduled performances sold out completely, promoting an encore performance which sold out as well. In short, the show was nothing less than stunning, leaving dazzled audiences with an unforgettable experience. 1 Accompanied by the munchkin children, Senior Darren Durlach belts out a note. "I like hearing the people laugh at my German-transfer-student imitation," Durlach said. This was the first time the faculty's children were used in a performance. 2 The star of the show, Junior Mary Yanovitch, cries on the stage during her acting debut. "I loved becoming my character in the play. Getting caught up in the moment was truly amazing," Yanovitch said. 3 Junior Nikki Mawyer works diligently to enhance the appearance of the Cowardly Lion before he visits the Wizard. "It was a good experience and everyone was fun to work with," said Mawyer. 4 The Wicked Witch, Senior Carrie Hanayik, taunts Dorothy and her companions. "It was great being in a show that sold out all five times," Hanayik said. The attendance was great encouragement for the performances. 5 Senior Chris Duncan does a terrific job of portraying Professor Marvel as he counsels Dorothy. "Working on the show with the entire cast was a thrill and I enjoyed every minute of it," Duncan said. 6 Senior Charlotte Dearborn works her magic on stage, both figuratively and literally as Glenda the Good Witch. "I enjoyed playing a larger-than-life character. It was an awesome experience," Dearborn said. She was extremely pleased with her role. 7 While rehearsing for opening night, Seniors Kyle Howard, Travis Bacile, Paul Haasch, and Junior Mary Yanovitch link arms as they travel down the yellow brick road. "During the play, all I could think of was 'Don't fall over, don't fall over,'" Howard said. 8 The "tinkie-winkies" march around the stage celebrating the Wicked Witch's death. This scene allowed many people to get involved with the play. 9 Senior Travis Bacile rehearses his facial expressions as the Cowardly Lion. "I liked being the Lion in the Wizard of Oz because I had a double-chin," said Bacile. The role complemented Bacile's personality well. 10 Coroner Evan Thompson announces the death of the Wicked Witch of the East. "We're one big happy family," said Thompson. The cast bonded well during the past few months of preparing and rehearsing for the show.

A Few Good Men

At 7 o'clock on March 31, 2000, fifteen guys strutted their stuff to see who really was KING OF THE HILL. After they competed with unique talents, beach wear, and formal wear, it finally came down to one person. 1 When it was all said and done, Junior Alex Bland was crowned Mr. Clover Hill. "I had a lot of fun out there. I was really surprised how much we supported each other," Bland said. 2 At the beginning of the "pageant", the contestants opened with a group dance. This opening helped to ease the guys' nerves. "Before I got on stage, I was so nervous I was about to cry. But when it was finally time to go, I just forgot about everything," Senior Alex Bailey said. 3 Some guys, however, showed there was a deeper side to them. Senior Stuart Marshall sang Wonderful Tonight by Eric Clapton. "It was really cool because we got to meet new people," Marshall said. 4 During the talent competition, Junior Don Principe struts his stuff as he raps Vanilla Ice's Ice, Ice Baby. "Everyone knew this song so, I figured they would be interested when I rapped it," Principe said. 5 To narrow the selection, the top five guys were picked to move on to the final round. "I was glad everyone respected each other and got along great," Junior Finalist Dan Nichols said. 6 To help the judges narrow the field the guys had to answer some questions. Standing in his beach wear, Tobin Walker anxiously awaits his question. "It was a lot of fun to just let loose for a night," Walker said. 7 Walking out to model his beach wear, Senior Donnie Frick impresses the crowd. "I wanted to make people laugh so I dressed as crazy as I could," Frick said. 8 The SCA officers put together this event full of talent, fun, and laughter. "It was a joy watching the guys for six hours learning how to dance," Junior Officer Allison Mui said as she awaits to crown the winner. 9 Combining their talents, Seniors Bill Bolton and Travis Jenny sang Bush's Glycerine. "This was one of the only songs we both knew and enjoyed so we decided to give it a try," Bolton said. 10 Some guys went all out for the competition, like Junior Kyle Zaharias. "People thought I was playing around, but I really do dress like this at the beach," Zaharias said.

OUR TOWN ON THE HILL

The spring play performed by the Cavalier Players, "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder, is a Pulitzer Prize winning American Classic. 1 Sophomores Stephen Lynn and Kristen Reyes sit attentively as their characters get a lecture from Senior Charlotte Dearborne, who played their mother. "The play was a lot of fun and we are going to miss Mr. Kenestrick and his great directing," Lynn said.

2 Sophomores Kristen Reyes and Kevin McGrath portray their characters with happiness as they smile to each other on their wedding day. "Our Town is a very deep, mature play. If you look hard enough, you can learn a valuable lesson. This was a great experience," Reyes said. 3 As she recites her monologue, Junior Shelby Black portrays her character as a woman on a balcony. "Our Town was a great experience for me because it is different from any show we have done because it is on the serious side," Black said. 4 Senior Charlotte Dearborn puts feeling into her role as Mrs. Webb. "For me, Our Town was an incredible experience because of the new talent and faces," Dearborn said. 5 Junior Chris McKinney portrays Mr. Webb alongside stage manager Chris Duncan. "I was more nervous without the audience. The live crowd provides an adrenaline rush making it more gratifying," said McKinney. 6 Junior Mark Delboy stands by as Freshman Tim Young questions Freshman Patrick Tandler. "I was surprised by how well the play went and I am glad it was such a huge success," said Young. 7 Junior Adam Lassley solemnly looks upon the audience in his portrayal of Simon Stimson. "It was a lot different from anything I have ever been a part of or that the school has ever attempted," Lassley said. 8 Professor Willard, played by Junior Beau Heuhach, delivers an enthusiastic speech while Senior Chris Duncan listens. "The live performance came off much better than we anticipated. In spite of the lateness and controversy surrounding the play, I feel like my performance was a personal best," said Duncan. 9 After a stunning performance, Junior Adam Lassley and Sophomores Angie Schulz, Stephen Lynn, and Caitlin Manasco pose for the post play pictures. "I like how the play still got its message across without many props or scenery," Manasco said. 10 Senior Darren Durlach and Lauren Strachan show their characters' personalities, Dr. Gibbs and Mrs. Gibbs, with love. "Our Town was a bonding experience...the last performance went very well," Durlach said.

The Garden

The success of our 2000 Prom exceeded everyone's expectations. The night was exciting and allowed the students to let loose and make the evening memorable. 1 Andrea Niculescu and her date treasure every moment of the final dance of the evening together. "It was great to see all my friends dressed up nicely and having a great time on the dance floor," Niculescu said. 2 Newly crowned King Jeff Joyner and Queen Jessica Berg stop for a quick smile at the camera on their way to the dance floor. "It was an unexpected honor to be crowned by my peers," Joyner said. 3 Seniors Bill Bolton and Helen McKeon enthusiastically walk down the isle in front of classmates who have selected them as candidates for the crown. "Walking down the isle in prom court was so memorable and my hat made it flashy," McKeon said. 4 In high spirits Sophomore Claire Zitzow strikes a pose on the way to the ballroom. "Prom was awesome. It was an experience I won't forget," Zitzow said. 5 Senior Travis Jenney talks with his date Ashley Strahan on his way to the coat room. "I was impressed with the DJ and the overall quality and effort put into the dance this year, the dance was the highlight of the night," Jenney said. 6 Senior Jon Lindberg and Junior Lauren Claytor spent the night dancing and having a blast. "Prom was a lot of fun because it was an all night party," Claytor said. 7 Junior Kirt Lawson leads Sophomore Ashley Perrett away from the floor to take a break from an exhausting night of dancing. "I'm glad I got to spend my prom night with my boyfriend, and it made for lasting memories," Perrett said. 8 Junior Jeff Ferrara gazes at Freshman Kaitlin Lord as they contemplate what to do after pausing during the dance. "Prom was a great experience for both Kaitlin and I because we got to spend time together and share a special event," Ferrara said. 9 Students danced hard all night long, and Junior Melissa Larkin was no exception. "I thought that JAC did very well with the decorations and the time they spent preparing really showed," Larkin said. 10 Seniors Michael Marlowe and Holly Shepard stop for a picture and anticipate the coming celebration, "Prom was a blast this year because I took someone who is really special to me," Marlowe said. The junior class should be proud, for everyone agreed that the night in the garden was certainly enchanting.

JUNGLE FEVER

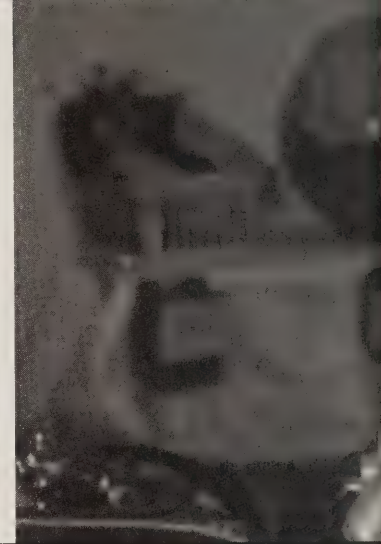

Post Prom 2000

During the early morning hours of April 9th, The upperclassmen topped off their prom experience by attending Post Prom at Robious Sports and Fitness Center. This five hour party, centered around the theme Jungle Fever, was an alcohol and drug free event sponsored by parents, faculty, and local organizations. Students enjoyed activities including: a mechanical bull, karaoke, foam dancing, casino gambling, a tattoo parlor, caricature, fortune telling, and the human fly trap. A fun time was had by all, making the event a huge success.

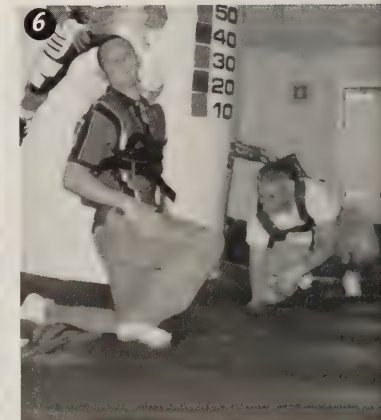

1 Junior Liz Clark jokes around with her friend Karen Zatkulak in the foam. "The foam dancing was the most memorable event of my post prom," Clark said.

2 Senior Rebekha Archibald examines raffle prizes before throwing her name in the bag. "I really wanted to win the $500 cash prize," Archibald said. 3

Senior Jon Goode shows off his surgical skills, trying to remove the "patient's" wishbone. "Playing Operation was a great way of remembering my childhood," Goode said. A lot of events at post prom, like Operation, allowed students to act like kids again. 4 Junior Jocelyn Drum gets a rose tattooed on her back at Post Prom's Tattoo Parlor. "I've always wanted a tattoo," Drum said. The "Tattoo Parlor" was a popular event where students could decorate their bodies, without the commitment of a permanent tattoo. 5 Senior Morgan Howell places a bet against Aaron Jackson while playing Blackjack in the casino. "Post prom was a great chance to get together with my friends and have a lot of fun," Howell said. Some students were lucky enough to win millions of dollars...in fake money. 6 Senior Kenny Wright smiles after defeating his friend Steven Kessler in "First Down". "Post prom was fun, especially beating my friends at football," Wright said. 7 Senior Beth Franklin waits while her caricature is drawn. "I think my caricature came out really great," Franklin said. 8 Junior Emily Greene sings karaoke with her friends. "Karaoke was a blast!" Greene said. 9 Senior Kinion Ayjian admires the tattoo being painted on her arm. "I love butterflies," Ayjian said. 10 Senior Dusty Ferrara tries to stay on the mechanical bull as long as he can. "It's a lot harder than it looks," Ferrara said. Many students attempted to ride the bull although some were more successful than others.

① Senior Joan Mendez performs a jackknife off the low dive. "It was a perfect day for a pool party because the weather was so beautiful," Mendez said. The pool party was scheduled on one of the hottest days of the year. ② Senior Brendan O'Neill passes the ball to his teammate in the sand pit at the Woodlake Swim and Raquet club. "I think everyone enjoyed playing volleyball at the pool party. The competition was tough," O'Neill said. The volleyball game rounded out the pool party by giving students a wide variety of activities to choose. ③ Seniors show off their senior class t-shirts at the picnic. "The picnic was a great time to hang out with friends and remember the fun times we had together in high school," Sarah Baughan said. The senior class t-shirt was designed by Bill Bolton.

④ Senior Ashley Hart rests in the shade with fellow seniors. "I was happy so many seniors could attend the pool party, it really made the event more memorable," Hart said. ⑤ Senior Shankara Ettigi laughs with friends in the water. "My friends and I took advantage of the pool to help cool us off after the picnic," Ettigi said. ⑥ Senior Nick Huelsing hacks with friends at the pool party. "Hacking with my friends was a fun way to spend the pool party," Huelsing said. ⑦ Senior Tony Accetta leans on the fence, talking with friends. "I went to the pool party because it was one of the last opportunities I'd have with my senior friends," Accetta said. Senior students used the event to take pictures, capturing the memories of their senior year forever. ⑧ Seniors take a break and talk after eating lunch. "I enjoyed the picnic because I got to talk with new and old friends, while enjoying the end of my senior year," Kate Bourdow said. The picnic was a great opportunity for seniors to celebrate their upcoming graduation. ⑨ Senior Class President Steve Evangelista is passed through the water by his friends. "The pool party was a great success, it was a great day to go to the pool," Evangelista said. The pool party was held at the SRC in Woodlake. ⑩ John Fernandez jumps over David Topham. "I like jumping over peoples' heads," Fernandez said.

Eat, Drink, and Remember...

As the 1999-2000 school year comes to an end, reminiscing seniors remember all the times they shared in the past four years. The senior class has laughed and cried together and now they prepare for the final good-bye. 1 Samantha Oliver sympathizes with an embarrassing picture during the slide show. "At the banquet I realized how close we all have become as a class over the years. I am so happy that I was able to be a part in so many wonderful people's lives," Oliver said.

2 Justin Lenart and Jenette Aurelio prepare for dinner while listening to speeches from the class officers. "It's good to know that you have friends who are so close to you. The banquet made me realize how much I am going to miss everyone next year," Aurelio said. 3 Ryan Nebara, Brett Banker, and Chris Clemenson take a break from dinner to pose for a fast picture. "It was great looking back on all the memories of elementary and middle school," Banker said.

4 Marvin Gilliam delivers the welcome speech for the banquet with an enthusiastic expression. "The hard work we put into the slide show really paid off when everyone saw the finished product," Gilliam said. 5 Amy Jones, Kinon Ajjian, Jeff Tannwe, Marie Skicism, Kelly Rowilins, Callie Gobble, and Debra Engleman enjoy both a delicious meal and the companionship of their close friends in a final meal together. "My Senior year has created so many valuable memories and the banquet was an excellent way to wrap it all up," Gobble said. 6 Bill Bolton and Janey Holstein present Senior Superlatives to deserving classmates. "I was proud to stand in front of the class and see how much we have grown together," Holstein said. 7 Class President Steve Evangelista shakes the hand of fellow classmate Corey Avery at the ceremony's conclusion. "The banquet was an overall wonderful ceremony. It was an excellent opportunity to share the one last evening with those closest to us," Evangelista said. 8 Newspaper adviser and Senior English teacher Denise Haley passes out Senior Last Wills and Testaments. "I have attended the banquet each year, and this one was exceptional. The slide show touched all of those who came; in particular, I enjoyed seeing the senior class have a last time together," Mrs. Haley said. 9 Jay Wolman, Buck Johnson, Stuart Marshall, and Travis Jenney pose for a picture after the banquet. "The Senior banquet was a nice night to wrap up four years of high school. Besides graduating this was our final time together as a class, and I won't forget it," Marshall said. 10 Michael Marlowe and Holly Shepard applaud the announcing of the Senior Superlatives. "It was nice to be able to reflect on the past in a positive way," Marlowe said. The senior class wrapped up their high school career with an evening filled with thought, conversation, and friendship.

Another Hill To Climb

Graduation provided seniors with a final chance to say goodbye to the people with whom they have shared the last four years of their lives. These students have learned, spent both good and bad times, and grown, together. High school is filled with memories, perhaps some of the most treasured memories of our lives thus far. At graduation, seniors reflect on all those memories as they listen to the speeches and watch their fellow classmates walk across the stage. The Valedictorian, Claire Myers, discussed how much potential each member of her class possessed. Jessica Whitfield, the Salutatorian, reminisced on the past years of all the students, from Kindergarten to the present. Tobin Walker gave the speech for the Mathematics and Science High School which professed the message of savoring each moment. As the seniors listened, they thought about their lives, their futures, their hopes and dreams. They looked down at their chords and medals and realized all that they have accomplished in the last four years. Then they looked up to see both their friends and family who have supported them along the way. Each graduate realized that they have succeeded in completing this thirteen-year journey, and now they are ready to face their futures and climb the next hill.

Since students' day to day lives are, for the most part, controlled by parents, teachers, and bosses, they often turn to their rooms as the one place where decisions are their own. This freedom leads to a wonderfully vivid display of a student's individualism, with no two rooms exactly alike. There are, however, some common factors in the decoration of teenage bedrooms; for example, it is quite popular to plaster a room with posters of favorite movies, musicians, and of various men or women whom the owner finds attractive. Also popular are stuffed animals, black lights, glow in the dark stars, pictures of friends, and a wide variety of trophies and awards. Much to the dismay of many parents, most rooms are also heavily ornamented by piles of dirty clothes and floors that one dares not walk through without shoes on, indicating that the only rule in room decoration is to do whatever you want.

It's the 21st century, and the diversity in clothing style is more apparent than ever. Fashion has entered a new era where clothing is a reflection of who you are. Whether it be the sleek and sophisticated style of Express, or the laid-back attitude of Pacific Sunwear's surfer attire, teenagers say they use clothing to express themselves. An emphasis on unique and trend-setting clothing was obvious in the previous century and today's styles foreshadow this to be true in the future. Both girls and guys alike agree that where you shop says something about who you are.

While looking to see who has been accepted to college, Senior Amy Modena realizes that senior year is almost over. "The most important thing I'm bringing will be my memories," Modena said.

It's A Time To... Start Over

As seniors prepared to leave home for college, one of the most important things on their mind was what they plan to take with them. Dorm rooms are practically bare, so students have the option to decorate the room themselves. Television and stereos are first to go in the car on moving day, followed by money, video games and teddy bears. Memories and pictures are also a must to bring. Packing up and leaving for college helped remind seniors that It's a Time to Start Over.

Senior Jamie Downing celebrates after making a good play for the Senior Girls. "Its was so much fun competing, I think they should make powder puff a varsity sport," said Downing.

Whether it is the Pep Rally, Powder Puff, Homecoming Parade, or the Hall Decoration Contest, the rivalries between classes are intense throughout the year. Spirit Week is the most competitive week of the year. Students lend a hand at attempting to outdo the other classes and make their spirit and participation more obvious to all. The biggest of the competitions for the year is for the Spirit Stick, which was claimed with enthusiasm and energy by the Juniors in the fall. Powder Puff is the next in succession of the many events for a class to get added recognition over the other classes. The Powder Puff game was extremely competitive, and ended in an 8-8 tie, much to the Seniors dismay and the Juniors delight. The theme of the Homecoming Parade was outer space. In the contest of floats between the classes and various clubs the Sophomore class succeeded in placing first with the Senior's trailing at a close second. The intense competition allowed every class to be a winner in the decoration contest with the Freshmen winning for best use of school colors, the Sophomores for most colorful banners, the Juniors for best floor decorations, and the Seniors winning the contest overall. The idea behind spirit week is to allow everyone in the school to interact with students and teachers from all positions and grade levels and become involved in a friendly school related activity. Spirit week is one of rivalry, hard work, fun, and competition, which has been found to be enjoyed immensely by everyone who participated.

Senior Sean Agan of 'Indecent' performs at a local punk festival. "There were more people in the bands than in the audience at that show!" Agan said.

At The Show

Just from listening to the variety of music played in car stereos in the parking lot, our music diversity is evident. Bands such as Blink-182, Dave Mathews Band, Phish, and DMX ranked among the most popular; however, students have always been a huge support of local music as well. With venues such as Twisters, Area 51, and Alley Katz, students can be seen every weekend either performing with other local bands or going to shows. Junior Jessie Woodward said "Twisters is full of smoke, hot, crowded, expensive, and dirty; but it's worth it because it's one of the only places that brings bands to Richmond". Also, bands such as Point Blank, Cepheid, Indecent, Vindication, and Mised may be seen playing at Skate Nation, 'Battle of the Bands', or even at house shows. So what are the rewards of such hard work and dedication? Freshman Dave O'Dell of 'Point Blank' said "Playing shows is like a slice of heaven...punk rock rules my world!"

Whether sitting down to a daily bowl for breakfast or grabbing a quick snack on the go, cereal can be a wholesome energy boost. Many people do not have the time for bacon and eggs in the morning and instead sit down for a quick bowl of cereal, which gives them the carbohydrates needed for the extra push.

When students were asked which cereal they preferred, Lucky Charms stole the number one spot. Frosted Flakes and Cheerios made it into the top ten, but could not compete with the unique taste and colorful marshmallows of Lucky Charms. No matter the brand, cereal tastes good and provides the energy needed for the early morning classes. Make it a great day or not; the cereal choice is yours.

Star Struck

Actors, actresses, models, singers, performers, are all people who are watched by the public everyday, including many high school students and young adults. Teens represent a large portion of the entertainment audience, as they travel to the movie theater every other weekend and view their favorite television shows every week. So, high schoolers tend to use these famous stars as role models and guides for their own lives. We wear the same style of clothes, copy the trends that they begin, cut our hair the same, and even quote our idols in our conversations. Teens also rely on their favorite celebrities, like the ones mentioned above, to help inspire them to achieve their own goals and become successful, just like those picture perfect stars.

Future Broadway star, Carrie Hanayik, portrays the Wicked Witch of the West in the fall play, Wizard of Oz. Drama classes as well as the school plays give students the chance to experience acting at a young age in the hopes of someday becoming just as famous as their favorite celebrities.

For Your Parking Pleasure...

The PIT?!?

What would Clover Hill be like without the pit?

The dirt, gravel, long walks to school, and the traffic, these are characteristics of the pit we will always remember. Yet many people do not know the history of the pit. The pit was not the "pit" when the school first opened. When the parking lot was designed, it was made for the school in the late sixties. In the early seventies, the school was kindergarten through twelfth and the pit was grass. Not until the late seventies did people start parking down in the pit, and it then became dirt. The pit has only been gravel for the past five years, and now about a hundred and fifty cars park down there.

Senior Chris Larson, one of the many students at Clover Hill that parks in the pit, concentrates hard to find his car "Sometimes I have difficulty finding my car, with so many others ones down here," said Larson. This is a common problem among the students.

"She's out of your league."

"If finding Ryan helps me get back to my wife... well that's what I will do."

"Follow the white rabbit."

Got ... Money ?

$$$$$$$$

When Clover Hill students were asked what they spend their money on, a variety of answers were received. The top two responses were food and clothes, with many admitting they spend the majority of their money on these. CDs, gas, and other car related expenses followed closely behind. Other things mentioned were concert tickets, gifts for friends, books and magazines.

Freshman Stephanie Baughan buys ice cream at a local ice cream store. "I often spend my money on food, especially ice cream," Baughan said. Many students choose to purchase food with their own money.

Senior Natalie Shaban fills up her car with gas after school. "The majority of my money goes to keeping my gas tank full," Shaban said. The upkeep of cars and their need for gas demands a large portion of student's money.

It's a Beautiful Morning

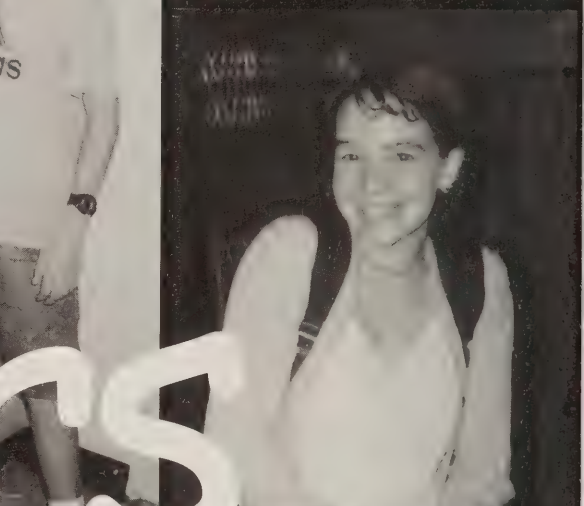

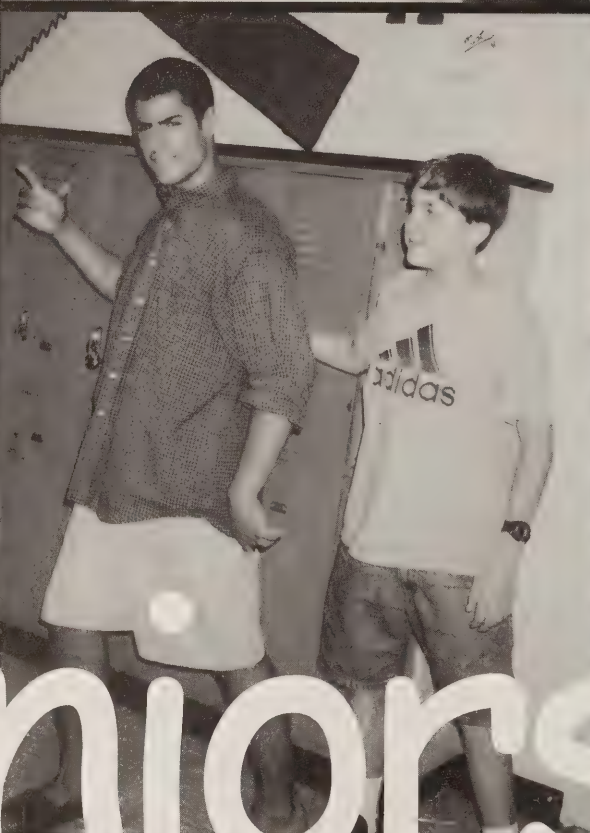

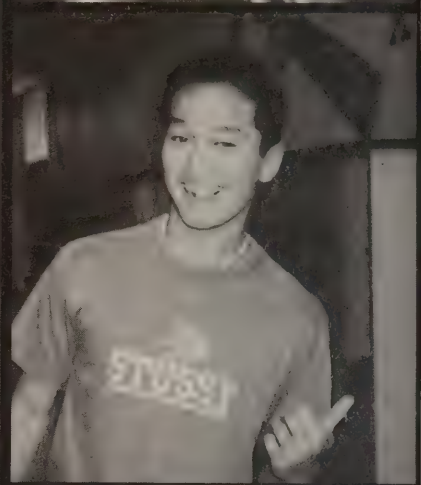

Mornings start early at our school. Students show up as early as 6:30 AM. How each person spends the 30 to 45 minutes before bell rings, varies widely. Some people use the time to eat breakfast, while others may study for a test in first period or finish their chemistry homework. "I come to school early, so I can finish the homework that I didn't get to do at home," Senior Christina Kwon said. Some seniors come just to get a good parking spot. Whether studying or socializing, mornings here are anything but boring.

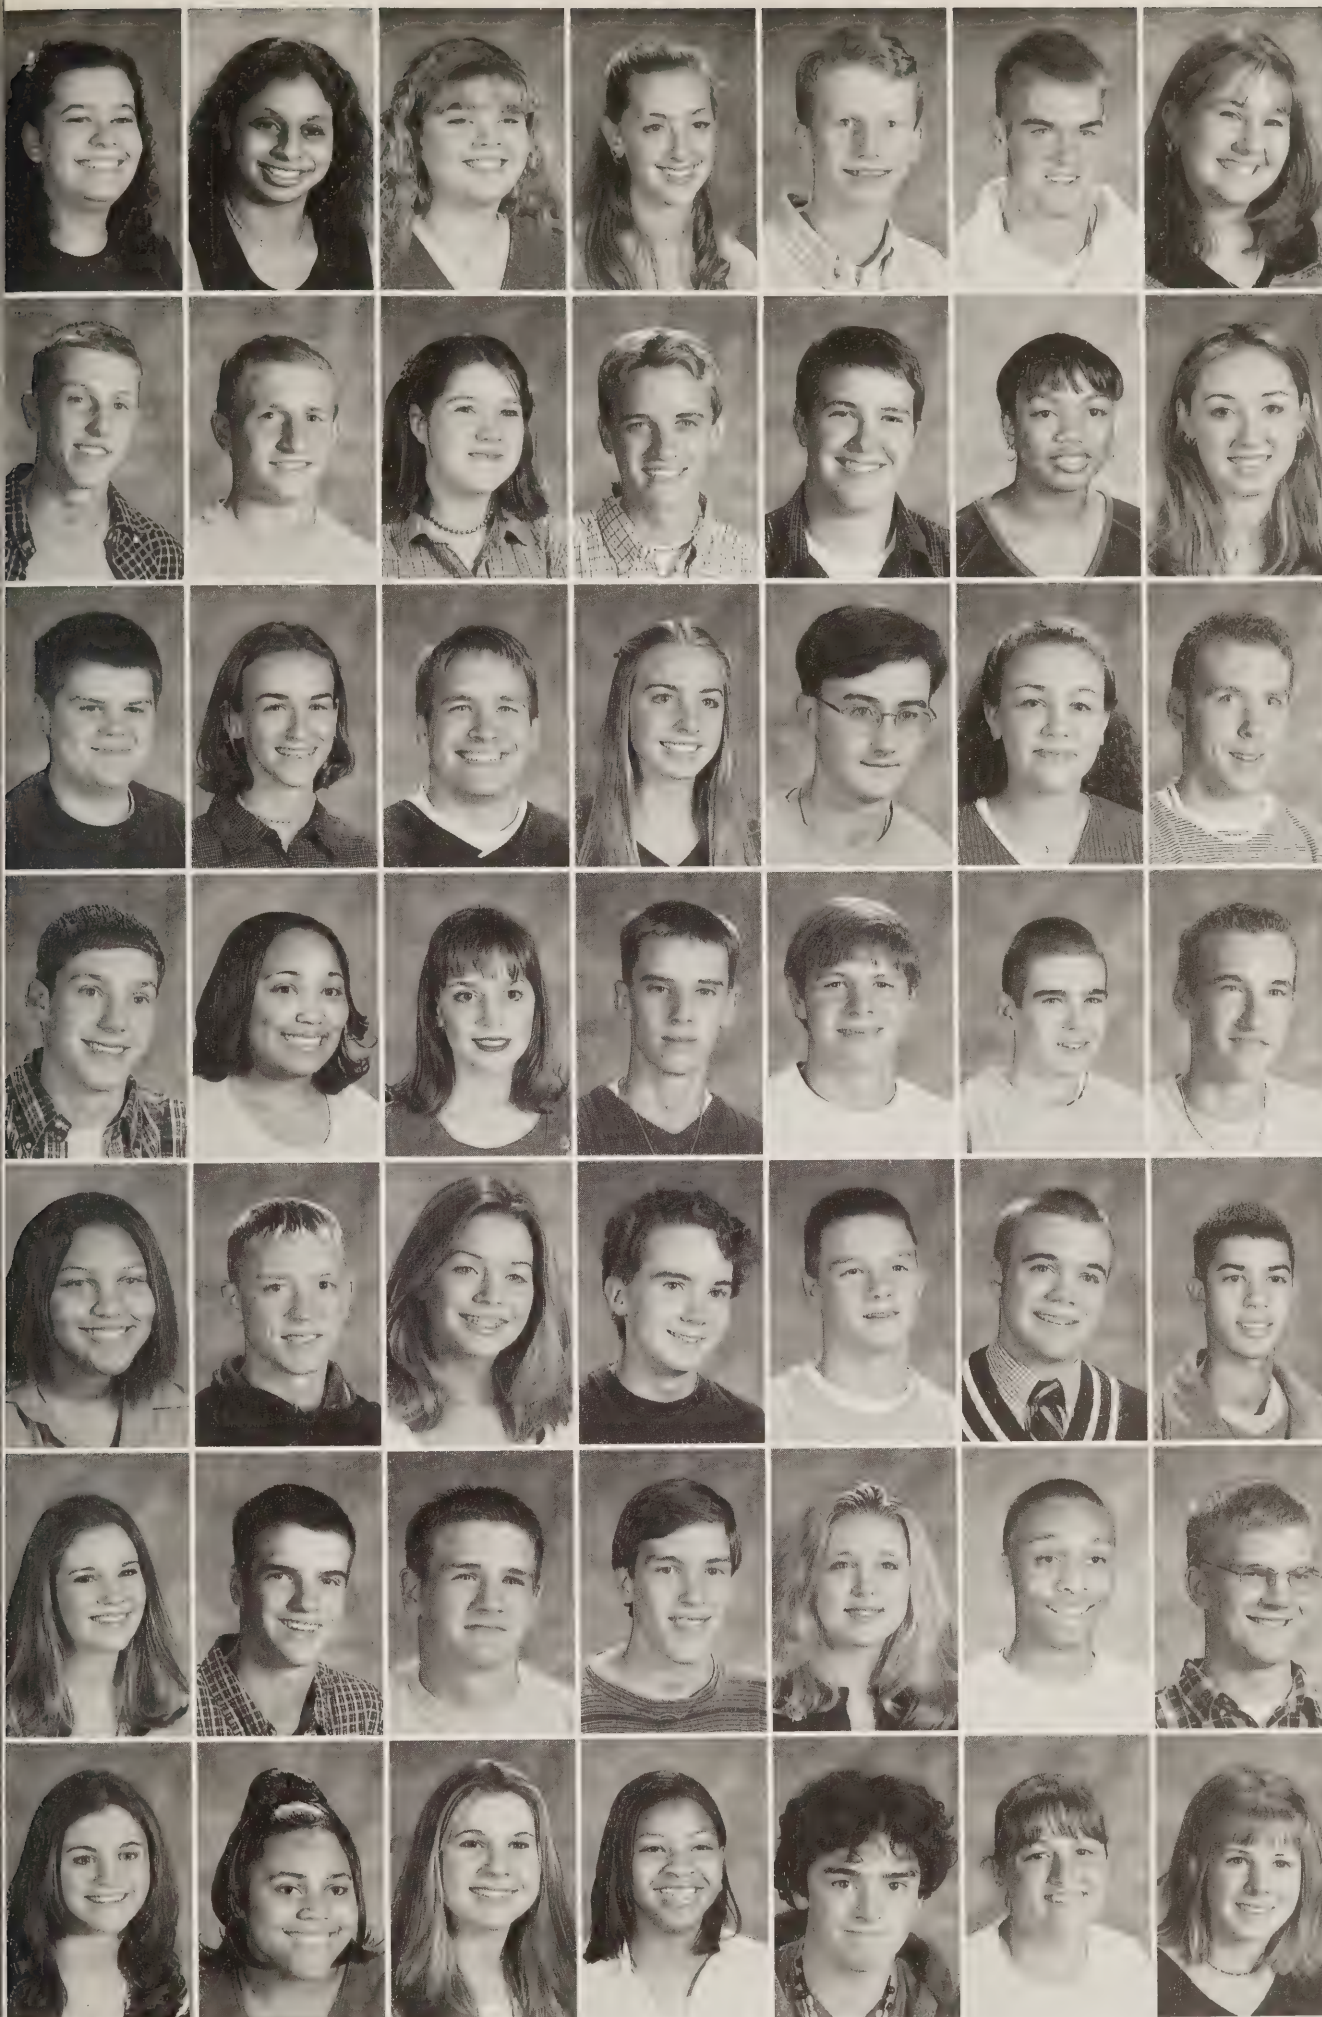

Mornings can also mean extra study time for many students. With busy schedules in the evenings, some students need morning time to catch up on homework.

Senior Katie Hohman laughs with friends in the cafeteria before school. "I get to school early to talk with friends," Hohman said. Many of the students use the morning to spend time and catch up with friends.

Students have found many unique ways to express themselves, especially through personalizing their license plates. 1 The sleek lines of this classy Saturn prompted Senior Jorden Phelps' choice of names for his car. 2 Letting her shining personality shine through, Junior Marianne Mancuso expresses herself through her plates. 3 Junior Tom Keller doesn't miss the chance to promote one of the area's local bands. 4 Everyone has something they are proud to announce to the world, and Junior Jackie Horak's is the love she holds for her father. 5 Two wrestlers in one family! Senior Jay Woman and his brother Mark exhibit their pride and dedication to the sport of wrestling. 6 License plates reflect people's ideas about themselves, as seen with Senior Missie Pendleton's plates. Everyone's license plates are unique to their own interests and personalities, and here at our school we have a wide variety!

With all of the extracurricular activities and homework, who has free time? Although our lives are filled with busy schedules, we learn to manage our time in order to do something we enjoy, like watch a favorite T.V. show. It gives us half an hour to relieve the stress from our lives. We are able to forget about everything we have to get done and take time to add a little laughter to our lives or learn a moral lesson by relating our lives to a character's. There are so many T.V. shows that everyone relates to at least one. Being able to get away from it all is the best thing television provides. Senior Lindsay Harris said, "Watching T.V. is a mindless activity that helps me to relax." Many people feel this way, which is why the typical American household has three televisions.

We Be Jammin'

When school gets stressful and chores become a pain, students turn to their radios for release and relaxation. Although the radio offers a limited number of stations, Cavs remain diverse in their listening preferences.

Coming in at the top of the poll was the usual favorite, Q94.5 FM.

1 Sophomore Brooke Bredel chills in her new car. "I like to listen to Q94 when my friends and I need to get psyched for a basketball game," said Bredel.

A newcomer to Richmond radio, Y101.1 FM gained a lot of attention as the "new rock revolution". Junior Katy Janousek voted it as her

2 Junior Huu Nguyen changes the dial as he climbs into his car. "I really enjoy listening to Y101 on my way to school... it helps me wake up," Nguyen said.

Students aren't the only people at our school who like the radio; the faculty have their favorite stations as well. Mrs. Amanda Mills said, "I listen to B103 to stay on the cutting edge of music and keep in touch with my students."

No matter what their reason for listening, one thing's for sure: students love jammin' to the radio.

Footprints through time

It's a party... It's a New Years countdown... It's a toast...

It's a new millennium, and a chance to start anew. To many, the year 2000 was probably the most memorable of all the New Year's celebrations. Students were given an extended curfew, allowed to go out to parties and watch the famous ball drop in Times Square at midnight. All the preparation for New Years paid off when the night arrived. Everyone was excited and involved in the spirit of passing through centuries. 1 "I had to break it down for 2000," said Senior Jessica Whitfield who spent the night with her friends Seniors Frankie Keller, Sarah Cary, Cady Condyles, Alexis Skipper and Catie Piehl. New Years was, for the most part, spent having a good time with close friends. 2 Kelly McCoy, Senior Lindsay Harris and Junior Dee Kirchmier smile before their last dinner of 1999 was served. "I loved going out with my friends to eat on New Year's. The night ended up being really fun," said Kirchmier. Sitting around and having a blast was the main objective of the night. 3 "Me and the girls made the night awesome!" said Sophomore Shelly Curry as she posed for a picture with her close friend, Danielle Moretti. 4 Sophomore Lindsay Marshall and Junior Liz Mattox laugh at the antics of several of their friends. "Spending time with good friends made my New Year's so much fun," said Mattox. 5 Getting into the spirit of 2000, Seniors Jamie Downing and Liz Crow display a new millennium style for the night. "It was a party I'll never forget!" said Crow. Most people left the television on to see the millennium celebrations all over the world. The party for the New Year was a chance for everyone to cut loose and catch up with old friends, meet some new ones, and have a good time. After all, a party for the millennium only happens once a century!

Mr. Steve Conley and Mrs. Brenda Mayo welcome Treeda Smith from NBC 12 as a guest speaker in the "Celebration of Unity" production. The program, which was eventually broadcasted on television, was a first for Clover Hill.

Make it a Great Day or Not...

Dr. Brenda Mayo inducts a Senior Sejal Patel into the National Honor Society while Paul Leonhard looks on. Mayo's first year at Clover Hill allowed her to participate in many new traditions.

After the departure of Dr. Jacqueline Wilson, Mrs. Brenda Mayo took over the principal reign as "Lady of the Hill." Native to Virginia, Mayo first arrived during the construction of the new office with high expectations. "Clover Hill is considered number one in the county for academics, so I expected great kids," Mayo said. With an extensive background in education, her background includes posts including principal of Robious Middle School, graduate assistant, and college professor in Ohio. Before becoming principal of our school, Mayo moved back to Chesterfield to be closer to her family. Now, with her first year at Clover Hill behind her, Mayo has big plans. "We are in great shape...I already have the sign picked out to display when we pass the SOLs. I want everyone to know that we are more than SOLs," Mayo said. In addition to standardized testing, the new principal is overseeing the beautification and expansion of our school. "We are forming alliances in France for the new French Immersion classes and are planning on building a separate complex building for it. We are also planning of decorating the inside of the school this summer," Mayo said. While new plans for the layout of the school are awaited, old policies have been reinforced as well as a few new additions regarding student dress policy and the new tardy policy. "Fashion industries are booming," Mayo said, "and we needed to re-invoke the dress policy." Mayo has stood behind the new Operation Clean Sweep and tardy policy as a step to improving the congestion in the hallways. But while many of these policies were enforced optimistically, Mayo is happy with the school's progress. "I don't have a lot to complain about," Mayo said. In the spring Mayo completed her doctoral degree in education. So what's next for Clover Hill's newest addition? "I'd like to someday go back and be a college professor, but I feel blessed right now because this is a great place to be," Mayo said.

It's a mute King... It's swimming the moat...

Once Upon A Mattress

It was a bittersweet night with the seniors excited about moving on to a new life in college, but still sad about it being their last performance here. 1 Senior Cary Tucker becomes emotional while trying to impress the queen. "What a great way to end our high school drama experience," Tucker said. 2 Senior Paul Haasch hesitantly embraces his mother, Senior Katie Hunter. "The play was a lot of fun and I'm going to miss participating in future productions", Haasch said. 3 Senior Carrie Hanayik dances the Can-Can with Juniors Jabarie Brown, Matt Stanley and Evan Thompson. "I really felt privileged to work with such talented people," Stanley said. 4 Senior Katie Hunter shows anguish over her son's choice of a bride. "Being my last play at Clover Hill, I'm glad it was a success," Hunter said. 5 The villagers wait anxiously for the queen's decision. "I was glad that my last show was with everyone and not just the seniors," Ballinger said. 6 Senior Carrie Hanayik demonstrates her musical talent as well as her acting ability as she sings of the mattresses discomfort. "It was a really fun play and we went out with a bang," Hanayik said. 7 Senior Chris Mattera contemplates which test to use in order to determine the princess' true royalty. "After four years of hard work, the senior show marked the end of an era," Mattera said. 8 Sophomore Kevin McGrath and Junior Don Principe show their fear of the queen. "It was so awesome to end the year with such a great production," McGrath said. 9 Seniors Jacki Young and Marvin Gilliam look on as Senior Chris Mattera, the wizard, demonstrates a magic trick. "We had a great cast and everyone worked really well together," Young said. 10 Junior Don Principe and Senior Sarah Post sing of the princesses' perfection. "The production was a wonderful chance for the seniors to strut their stuff one last time," Principe said. The seniors gave a funny and memorable farewell to the crowd as they left the stage with style.

It's the last show... It's a powerful Queen... It's a pea...

SAC officers, Stuart Marshall, Bill Bolton, Marvin Gilliam, Janey Holstein, Darren Durlach, and Steve Evangelista, take a break from an officers meeting. "Being involved with SAC this year increased the amount of excitement of my Senior year," Senior Class Secretary Janey Holstein said.

Class of ... 2000

The senior class of 2000 was involved in a wide variety of activities this year. Some of the most popular events were the community service projects that the council participated in. For instance, the Flight of Fantasy, a traditional senior class event, where Senior Advisory Council members pretended to greet young children at the North Pole where presents were awaiting them. "The Flight of Fantasy was rewarding when I saw the smiling faces of the children. It reminded me of what Christmas morning was like when I was a kid," Senior Class President Steve Evangelista said. They were also involved in feeding the homeless during the holiday season, as well as the homecoming parade and spirit week. The spirit week plans included designing a float for the parade and making an eight foot tall cavalier for the homecoming pep rally. Throughout spirit week the senior class worked together to create togas for class distinction day. SAC also gave out green and gold pom-poms for seniors to cheer with at the pep rally. The final task that the Senior Advisory Council performed this year was all of the preparations leading up to graduation. They organized the senior slide show and helped with thinking of designs for the senior T-shirts. SAC spent endless hours planning for the long awaited senior pool party, picnic, and graduation ceremony.

Seniors Emily Burr, and Helen McKeon prepare to wear their togas for class distinction day. "The togas were difficult to move around in, but it was good to see everyone getting involved," Burr said. Wearing togas is one of the many Senior Class traditions.

Senior Travis Deckart helps one of the children at Flight of Fantasy unwrap his present. "Flight of Fantasy was an activity that made me feel good about myself," Deckart said. Many members of SAC worked with one child throughout the day.

It's a senior priveledge... It's a banquet... It's a sleigh ride...

Monster Blizzard

It was beautiful, and its timing was perfect. The blizzard of 2000 kept students out of school for a week. As for its timing, the blizzard hit this area the day before the start of exam week. The 16 inches that blanketed the area shut down companies and all Metro-Richmond schools. By the time people were successful in digging out, it was Wednesday. The roads were still hazardous on Thursday and Friday, which resulted in a full week off from school.

The snow supported some students' hypothesis'. "It proved my theory that every 4 years we have a blizzard," said Junior Eera Khanna, reflecting back on the Blizzard of '96. To others, it was just an easy-out from stressful classes. Freshman Lindsey Woodward said simply, "It got us out of school." Students took advantage of the foot of snow by going sledding day and night, and soon settled into a ceaseless routine of eat, sleep, and play. Junior John Clark smiled and said, "It was a good way to start off the New Year," when asked about the blizzard. Many students shared his sentiments, taking the sign of the rare amount of snow as a good omen for the upcoming year.

For seniors, however, the snow was a disappointment. Not only had the seniors worked so hard to exempt exams, which is only a senior privilege, but also because the timing was not in their favor. Had the Blizzard come just a week later, seniors would have missed almost a month of school. A week for exam preparation, a week for exams, and then two weeks due to the blizzard and ice storm. Seniors were also angry at the fact that all students exempted exams, not only themselves, who had worked hard to meet exemption requirements. On the other hand, freshmen who had been studying for their first high school exams were understandably relieved, along with sophomores and juniors.

Snow blankets the ground in front of the school, a few inches deep, barely giving people passing by on route 360 a glimpse of the blizzard that had shut down the county for days.

Sophomores Kinsey Hewitt and Steven Coggins goof off in the snow after completing a snowman. "I planned to study, but after I found exams were cancelled, I just had fun in the snow with my friends," Hewitt said.

It's a snowball in the face... It's a day off from school.

It's the winning basket scored in the last second... It's the final stretch of the 5K... It's an inspirational half-time speech by the captains when you're down by one... It's the sound of a gun to send you out of the starting block... It's a shoot-out to break the tie... It's an ace to close the match... It's a competitive SPORT... It's a home run hit in the last inning to win the game... It's a

Rushing Towards Victory

Despite facing a challenging season the varsity team had an enjoyable year. The last game of the year against Manchester, a hard fought 20-21 loss, showed the determination of the team to do their best. 1 Sophomore Tim Wiley sprints down field to receive a pass from the quarterback. "I enjoyed the challenge of being one of the few sophomores on the varsity team," Wiley said. Promising players like Wiley provide a bright outlook for our football team. 2 The team receives encouragement and advice from Coaches Ted Salmon and Wayne Mehrer. "Though the season wasn't exactly what we had hoped for, the camaraderie and friendship will stay with us forever," Senior Eric Jehu said. 3 Senior Jonathan Johnson makes a last minute save, preventing the opponent from scoring a touchdown. "The best offense is a good defense," Johnson said. 4 Trainer Ed Metzger attends to an injured Senior Michael Marlowe. "Whenever we get hurt Ed is always there to help us out," Marlowe said. Helping athletes recover as quickly as possible is important for a successful team. 5 Sophomore Steve Rogge passes the ball down field to an open receiver. "I learned a lot from this season and can't wait until next year," Rogge said. 6 Senior Larry Thompson guards the receiver as he tries to move toward the end zone. "The team unity was shown by the cookouts every Thursday night," Thompson said.

"I love football. I've played football my whole life and I don't know where I'd be without it."

Both the JV. and Freshmen teams faced difficult seasons, but their capabilities were far better than their records showed. A slow start set the Cavs back, for it wasn't until the last half of the year that they learned to pull together and play as a team all four quarters. Many players look forward to moving up to the Varsity level and starting their season right where it left off, with a win. 1 The Freshman offensive line stares in anticipation at the opposing defense. "I am glad I have my line to protect me in order to execute the play," Patrick Nebera said. 2 As the JV Team huddles to discuss their game plan, Sophomore Troy Moss listens intently. "Inspirational speeches from the Coach and team leaders, would get us psyched and ready to play," Moss said. 3 Unstoppable Sophomore Cameron Mitchell weaves in and out of Midlothian's defense. "Practices are hard work, but it pays off when game time comes around," Mitchell said. 4 Sophomore C.J. Skipper stares into the eyes of an onrushing linebacker. "The determination of our team pushes everyone to do better," said Skipper. 5 Freshman Jeremiah Austin shakes and bakes his defenders as he rushes for a first down. This year, the JV. and Varsity women's volleyball teams exhibited their exceptional bonds and dedication. 1 The Varsity team, coached by Shelley Herzing, shows its unity as Junior Lindi Shephard and Senior Katie Hohman watch Junior Sara Heyl tip the ball. "I'm glad I could play with Katie and Katherine. They taught me so much that helped me improve my play this season," Heyl said. 2 The JV team is no stranger to this camaraderie, anticipating the start of the game. No one could conquer the mens JV and Varsity volleyball teams' strong spirit and determination. 1 Throughout the year, the Varsity team was no stranger to success. Senior Matt Roscoe spikes the ball while his teammates Junior Mike Dennis and Senior Adam Hubble warm up. "I just want to pound!" Roscoe said.

2 The JV team accomplished their goals to finish first in the district. During the JV tournament, Freshman Eric Drum, Sophomore Ryan Phelps, Freshman C.J. Grinnell, and Sophomores Jeff Gunther and Grant Nofzinger prepare to return the serve. "It was great winning the James River Invitational Tournament," Grinnell said. 3 Although JV Coach Lampley encouraged hard work in practice, she still incorporated an element of humor. Sophomores Kensey Hewitt and Jeff Gunther observe the Varsity team. "Volleyball is a fun sport, especially when Ms. Lampley is the coach," Hewitt said. 4 The Varsity team's casual closeness allowed a camaraderie among the men, as Senior Jeremy Roland makes a crucial dig. "I enjoyed the competition, the team spirit, and the dancing on the bus," Roland said. 5 As the number one team in the district, the Varsity team exhibited tremendous school pride. Senior Dave Topham kneels in preparation to switch positions. "We're the Cavs, oh yes, and we are the best!" Topham said.

6 Sophomore Kevin McGrath moves to pass while teammate Freshman Graham Shephard looked on. "We have a well-experienced coach and a well-disciplined team," McGrath said.

"Being captain is hard because you have to set an example on and off the court, but I had a great time. I enjoy school most when I'm playing volleyball."

You gotta SHOOT to SCORE

Throughout the season, the field hockey teams went through a tremendous amount of hard work to strengthen team unity, giving up their last two weeks of summer for the daily "long run" and team drills. Their success was reflected on the score boards. 1 Advancing toward the Monacan goal, Senior Chandani Kohli, takes a shot. "This one's going in," said Kohli. Even though she did not score, she aided Lindsay Ballinger in scoring the tie breaking goal. 2 With a swift pass from another team member, Freshman Rebecca Bourne proceeds to take the ball up the field to score. "The 'flats and throughs' at practice improved our communication in games," Bourne said. 3 Senior Suzanne Coggins defends herself against Colonial Heights. "The one thing on my mind at that moment was to make sure Colonial Heights did not gain possession of the ball," said Coggins. The team's aggressive attitude was evident in their games this year. 4 During halftime, the JV team regroups to discuss the team's game so far. Coming together as a team enabled JV to refocus their attention to the game. 5 Offensively, Junior Katie Janouseck rushes in front of her opponent to attack the ball. "It's important to get the adrenaline pumping and to go off that," Janouseck said. 6 Sophomore Christie Shrom takes a swing in an attempt to move the ball up the field during a JV field hockey game. "My job is to pass the ball to the offense, so they can score," Shrom said. Passing was key in the JV team's success.

This year the golf team defended their title to emerge second in the districts as well as in the region, losing only to Freeman. For the first time in five years, the team went to States as a team and placed third. 1 During a match, Senior Donnie Frick shows perfect form as Junior Joe Bodsford looks on observing his technique. "I've kept my mind clear this season, hopefully it will have paid off positively," Frick said. 2 As Sophomores Taylor Payne and Brett McCutchan warm-up for a match, they focus on their putting skills. "Coach Llewellyn encourages a focused warm-up to keep our minds on track," Payne said. 3 Senior Ryan Nebera lines up the ball for the final stroke of the match. 4 Junior Joe Bodsford practices for the Manchester match on the putting green at Brandermill Country Club. "Warming up really helps in the long run for matches," Bodsford said. 5 At an away match, Senior Ryan Nebera stays focused, concentrating on bringing home a win. "As a senior, my attention skills have definitely matured," Nebera said. 6 Following through with a clean shot, Sophomore Brett McCutchan puts full force on his swing at a home match. "My personal goal was to place in every match that I could," McCutchan said. 7 Before a match, Coach Llewellyn gives words of encouragement to his players. "Unfortunately, our worst match in ten years was against James River, and it was one of the only losses of the season" Llewellyn said. The Cavs once again made their mark at districts, regionals, and states with a record of 10-3-2.

Love 2 Play

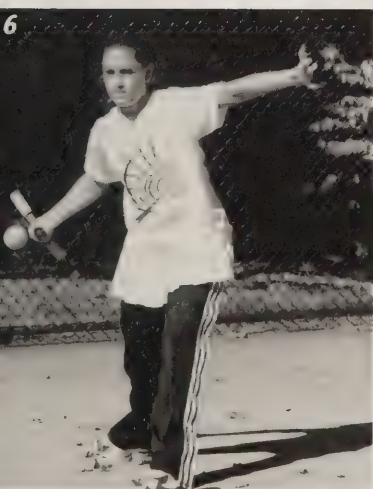

The women's tennis team finished their season with a 6-5 record, taking third place in the Dominion District. Senior Amy Modena and Junior Andrea Niculescu competed in singles matches, while Modena and Junior Cori Fisher as well as Freshman Erin Modena and Junior Katie Snidow participated in doubles play at the District Tournament. 1 Erin Modena reaches for the winning point during a tournament match. "This year was a lot of fun especially the tournament in Virginia Beach," Modena said. 2 Sophomore Sarah Wyman stretches before a game. "Even though tennis is an individual sport, the team worked well together and encouraged each other to do their best," she said. 3 Cori Fisher returns her opponent's volley with a powerful backhand swing. "Since we gained a lot of new players this season, I feel our team will be stronger in the future," Fisher said. 4 Junior Courtney Magill relaxes with friends during a break between matches. "Losing five out of the top six players challenged all of us, yet at the same time alleviated some of the pressure to succeed that was placed on us in the past," Magill said. 5 Senior Meghan Nardella shows that the key to tennis is good hand-eye coordination. "This year was fun. I felt that the team got closer, to me it felt like a family," Nardella said. 6 Sophomore Lauren Crow shows her determination to hit the ball. "Being one of the two sophomores on the team made it an exciting but challenging year," Crow said. 7 Junior Lauren Tipton sprints to reach the ball in time. "Coach Lloyd is really supportive and helps cheer us up if we have lost a match or haven't done as well as we wanted to," Tipton said, crediting her coach for her success.

"It was a big change from last year, seeing as we lost a lot of players, but we still managed to bond together and have a good time."

Stepping Up To Excellence

Picking up their feet, the men's and women's cross country teams astounded the competition. 1 Seniors Phillip Keck and Chris Morgan warm up before a meet with Junior Aaron Cook. "Mr. Averill pushed me and gave me confidence in my running. He was really harsh, but we worked hard and it paid off," Keck said. 2 Seniors Katherine Talbot, Aimee Palumbo, Renee Crickenberger, and Cady Condyles keep the pace. Contributing to the teams' success were Coaches Kline and Averill, who motivated the runners. "Getting to know Mrs. Kline was really inspiring to me. Seeing her run after teaching all day made me think if she could do it, I could too," Condyles said. 3 Despite the hard work, the team was still able to have a good time. Sophomore Brittany Skipper and Junior Katharine Schweighardt warm up with smiles before the meet. "Cross country is a great way to stay in shape while having fun," Skipper said. 4 Finishing the back stretch, Junior Ed Altman, Senior Trevor Pierce, Sophomore Justin Kohut, and Junior Michael Skiba lead the race against Monacan. "Girls in short shorts... and people ask why I run!" Altman said. 5 Pushing it to the limit, Justin Kohut and Michael Skiba stay in front of the competition. "Some people come to race to see who's the fastest, but I come to see who has the most guts," Kohut said. Overall, the teams' hard work paid off. 6 Junior Emily Cuenen keeps her pace as she leads the race. "The training was hard, but it all paid off in the meets," Cuenen said.

"This year I learned a lot through the demand put on me by being captain. I worked hard to serve as a good leader for the entire team."

Starting a New Line 1

With only six returning cheerleaders on the varsity squad, captains Beth Franklin and Stephanie Witt were faced with the challenge of coaching novice girls. Inexperience, however, proved inconsequential, for the team's season was a successful one. The JV Cheerleaders, on the other hand, drew from their past experience of middle school and competition cheering to create new and innovative routines. ❶ The JV squad shows their ability to perform stunts during halftime. "We are all friends, which allows us to work as a unit and perfect performances." Sophomore Christen Short said during a break in the game.

❷ Loud cries from the varsity team attempt to bring the crowd to their feet. "Seeing the crowd's reaction, brings relief after a season of hard work," Senior Sejal Patel said. ❸ Freshman Brooke Lassiter is tossed into the air during a stunt. "High school cheering requires time and determination to achieve the highest goals," Lassiter said. ❹ Supporting Brooke Lassiter, Sophomore Jordan Allonier helps her squad with a stunt. "Cheering allows me to get involved with our school and its fans," Allonier said. ❺ During the homecoming pep rally, varsity squad member Emily Greene is all smiles as she cheers on the school. "It's been a rough ride, but the journey has been beneficial," Greene said. ❻ Junior Lauren Topham stands along the sideline and cheers the football team to victory. "We tried hard to help the team this year, and even though we had a lot of inexperienced girls, we did a good job," Topham said. ❼ In her second year on the JV squad, Sophomore Jillian Shaban leads the team to the perfect cheer. "I believe Performing at their peak, the Cavalettes demonstrated their years of talent.

1 Coming together, the team shows their smiles for a successful season. "Through a lot of hard work and effort, we've managed to perform at our best ability," sophomore Sara Christ said. 2 The team enjoys smiling while dancing as well. Seniors Janey Holstein, Holly Shepherd, Jamie Downing, Junior Amanda Emma, and Sophomore Sara Christ express their excitement to begin a routine. "We've really improved because dancing is something we love to do," Emma said. 3 Seniors Debra Lee Letchford and Jamie Downing dance in the stands as well as in the spotlight. "Dancing at the football games is a lot of fun, and I'm really sad it's over," said Downing. 4 Preparing to dazzle the crowd, the Cavalettes circle the male athletes at the pep rally. "This had been the best year so far because I feel I have grown and learned," Letchford said. 5 Experience allowed the Cavalettes to improve the routine to their liking. Senior Liz Crow smiles for the crowd as she performs the dance. "This year we are going for more of a dance technique, rather than cheerleading," Crow said. 6 Having fun at the pep rally, Senior Janey Holstein and Junior Matt Greer entertain the audience. "This year has been really great because we have seven seniors," Holstein said. The number of seniors added leadership qualities and dancing skills to the squad. 7 During halftime at the football game, the team puts on a show. "Being captain is a lot of hard work, but it's worth it, especially since we have a lot of good dancers on the team," Senior Shepherd said.

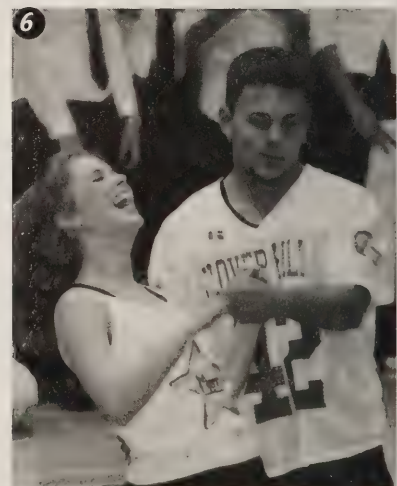

"I have been a part of the Cavalettes for four years now, and I wouldn't take back any minute of it. It's been worth all the hard work I've put into it."

And The Band Played On...

Marching Band continued to display a positive image throughout their performances this season. Competitions included Park View and Lee Davis where the band received ratings of "excellent," due to tedious planning, precise coordination, and exuberant energy. 1 During halftime, Junior Sean Nicholson and Freshman John Bell blast their trumpets loudly. "We performed a lot better than I initially thought we would," Nicholson said. 2 Junior Ali Smith finishes her routine with a smile. "Being in color guard for the past 2 years has been fun," Smith said. 3 Senior Stephanie Bowles tosses her baton high in the show. "The twirling thrills never stop in Marching Band," Bowles said. 4 Standing proud, Freshman Ronald Forbes shows a competitive expression on the field. "I've never done anything better on a Friday night," Forbes said. 5 Color guard performs their complex routine in the midst of the band. "I enjoyed being captain. It was a nice way to end my senior year," Senior Betsy Martin said. 6 The brass section dominates the field during homecoming game's halftime. "The trips and the competitions were the best," said Freshman Derin Harrison. 7 Every aspect of Marching Band is vital to their overall performance, however, Junior Justin Lavimodiere is confident with his position. "Drumline makes our band!" said Lavimodiere, who has been in Drumline for three years.

"Being drumline captain this year was a nice oppprtunity to boss my friends around."

Crank Up The Chaos

Chaos has proven their ability to compete among top competitors in the area and pump up the crowd during half-time. Performing at not only half-time shows, various assemblies, productions, and pep rallies, Chaos has been honored with many awards in area competitions. 1 During an assembly which celebrated unity, the step team performed beyond expectations. Freshman Erin Eves steps to the beat. "Being a first year memeber on the team, the veterans have made it a fun enviroment to learn old routines and learn new steps." Eves said. 2 Senior Angela Taylor gets warmed up before a performance. "With the majority of the step team graduating this year, we are trying to go above and beyond the accomplishments of past years." Taylor said. 3 Senior Bryant Crawley expresses determination and desire while performing during the Pep Rally. "I've enjoyed being on step team because of the diversity and the abiltiy for everyone to come together." Crawley said. 4 The steppers practice a routine for their half-time show. "Step team has been a wonderful experience because I have made a lot of friends and I have been accepted as part of a team," Junior Kimie Vance said. 5 Senior Fatima Varner steps to the beat and completes a step. "Step team has been an extremely rewarding aspect of my high school career." Varner said. 6 Senior Johnna Pressley stands at attention during half-time. "Being invloved in athletics was a nice part of step team." Pressley said. 7 Sophomore Angie Jordan completes her routine in style. "It's nice to be recognized for all of our hard work and determination." Jordan said.

Above The Rim

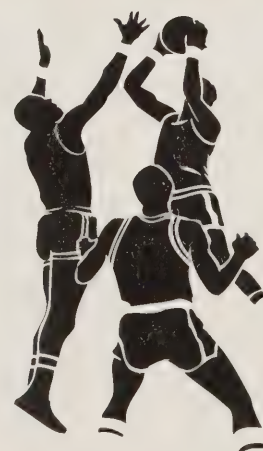

The men's Varsity basketball team finished a tough season this year with a positive attitude. The team displayed a determination and hard work ethic which enabled them to stay motivated throughout their disappointing defeats. The team's unity and dedication was an evident aspect of their games this season. 1 Senior Harrison Potter dribbles down the court while holding off a member of the Hopewell defense. "Our team was much better than our record this year," Potter said. 2 As teammates Kyle Zaharias and Stuart Marshall run down the court, Senior Jonathan Kready takes possession of the ball. "Despite our slow start, the players came together and produced a successful season," Kready said. 3 During a tough game, Senior John Fernandez takes a shot to aide the team. "This group of players has always come out on top, and this year we continued that trend," Fernandez said. 4 Junior Kyle Zaharias shoots while teammate Harrison Potter waits for the rebound. The team maintained an optimistic spirit during the intense season. 5 The fans look on as Senior Buck Johnson tries to make a difficult shot during the Hopewell game. "This year's team chemistry was off because in past years we have been guard oriented, and this year the Big Man played more of a role in the offense," Johnson said. 6 As the game begins, Junior Kyle Zaharias reaches above the hand of the opponent to pass the ball to his teammate. "Even though our scores did not reflect our hard work and dedication, we remained friends on and off the court," Zaharias said. 7 Senior Matt Roscoe blocks a defender and reaches for the ball so he can pass it to his teammate. "I had a lot of fun this year because our team was so close," Roscoe said.

Hoop Dreams

The members of the J.V. and Freshman basketball teams worked together to end in a successful season. Commitment, teamwork, and confidence that the teams displayed throughout the season was evident in their final record.

- 1 Sophomore Herman Demmick maneuvers his way around Manchester's defense and performs a lay up to aid his team. "After Mr. Kinder announced his leave for the secret service, the team decided to put in the extra effort for him," Demmick said.
- 2 Coach Kinder gathers his J.V. team to discuss strategies and build confidence. Sophomores Brandon Wall, Will Hezlep, and Bill Violante huddle while giving their coach full attention. "Mr. Kinder used humor to keep the team relaxed and intimidation to keep us motivated," Wall said.
- 3 To begin the game, Freshman Jamal Harris tips the ball to his teammate. "I like being able to jump high so I can start off the game in a good way," Harris said.
- 4 Freshman Corey McDaniel focuses on the net as he plants his feet and prepares for a jumpshot. "We played hard in every one of our games," McDaniel said.
- 5 Trying to recover the ball, Freshman Kevin Bennett reaches above George Wythe's shooter and grabs the ball. "It was fun to travel with the team for my first year of high school basketball," Bennett said.
- 6 Manchester looks on as Sophomore Aaron Skeete pauses to put up a shot. "Playing ball for a high school team gives me the chance to interact with new people," Skeete said.

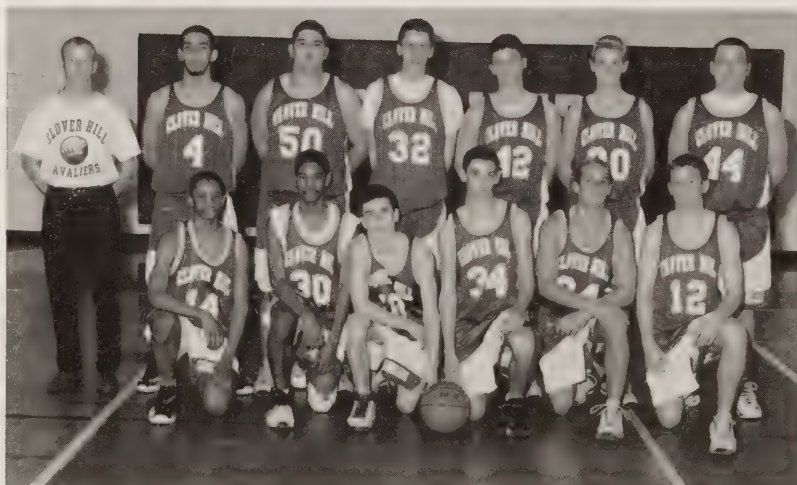

"Even though the outcome of the season was somewhat disappointing, the unity between the teammates and Coach Kinder is something that we will always remember."

FIGHTING FOR THE PIN

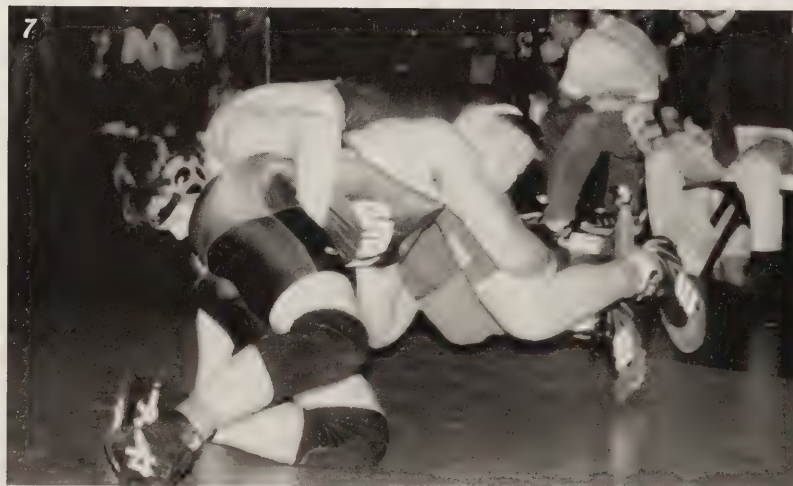

It's all about strength, reactions, and tough competition. The young men of the wrestling team devoted many strenuous hours of time to being thrown on the mats, perfecting their skills and excellent maneuvers. 1 At the end of a tough struggle, Freshman Wayne Huggins raises his arm in victory. "The feeling of winning is the greatest in the world," said Huggins. 2 Victory is no stranger to this team. Using all his strength, Sophomore Eric Colpo's focus is on the pin. "To succeed in this sport, you have to be mentally tough," said Colpo. 3 After the grueling mental preparation, the team has fun. Going for the win, Junior Andy Krukiel tries to throw his opponent to the mat. "Wrestling is more fun when I dominate my opponent," said Krukiel. 4 Senior Tobin Walker struggles to capture a victory. "Wrestling is fun when all your hard work and practice pays off," said Walker. 5 Although wrestling is fun, the physical preparation required is tremendous. Junior Ryan Smith goes head-to-head with his opponent. "It takes a lot of dedication to get anywhere in this sport," said Smith. 6 Using his determination, Sophomore Tyler Rogers forces his opponent to the mat. "All of the physical training involved in this sport really gets me in shape," said Rogers. 7 During his match, Junior Matt Brickley tries to toss and pin his opponent. "I've never been as strong as I am now. I can pin my opponents easier than I could before," said Brickley. They've earned the right to be called athletes; their constant endurance and determination will continue to pay off.

Keeping The Pace

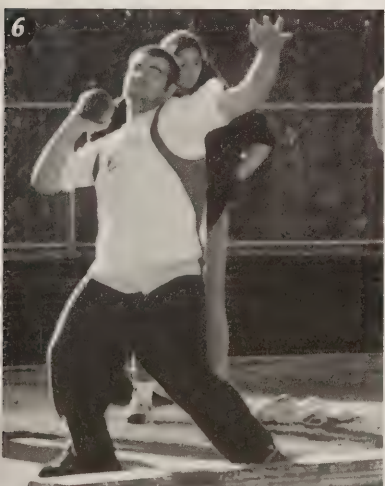

Our school offers indoor track for runners who wish to stay in shape during the winter months. Coached by Mr. Brown, the team has many members. The popularity of indoor track ensures that the winter and spring track seasons are successful. 1 Sophomore Christine Pearce jumps over a hurdle on her way to victory. "Hurdles are my favorite part of indoor track," Pearce said. Students enjoy the fast paced competitive aspects of the hurdle event. 2 Junior Brittany Rhoney passes the baton off to a teammate. "Track is a great way to have fun and exercise at the same time," Rhoney said. Many runners agree that running relays together helps build friendships. 3 Senior Chris Clementson soars through the air in his lucky purple shoes. "Indoor track is a great opportunity to get in shape for the outdoor season," Clementson said. Many students take advantage of indoor track to stay fit during the winter months. 4 Senior Trevor Pierce gives his team the lead they need in order to win the relay event. "Indoor Track helps me make friends and get in shape at the same time," Pierce said. 5 Sophomore Chris Coon picks up his pace to fend off an attack on his lead. "I like running the relay events in indoor track," Coon said. Relay races require a great deal of team work and cooperation. 6 Sophomore Adam Hackworth prepares to hurl the shot put towards its destination. SLIDING HOME...

The Varsity and J.V. teams were loaded with great talent, and complemented by valuable experience. With plenty of excitement and breathtaking games, a successful season was recorded for both teams. This was truly baseball at its finest.

1 Senior Morgan Howell rips a line drive as he bats against a Midlo pitcher. "We struggled at the beginning of the season, but as it progressed we started to have some fun and the team really came together," said Howell, who has had a strong presence on the Varsity team for two years. 2 Varsity baseball players get a little crazy when they step in front of the camera. Sophomore Herman Demmink made his Varsity debut this season. "This is an unusual team in which we get along well, both on and off the field," said Demmink. 3 Senior Eric Davis fires a pitch to the catcher during an intense game against Manchester. Team unity was an important aspect to him. "Our season has really begun to come together since we have bonded and become one," said Davis. 4 Sophomore Bill Violante crouches down in position before the opposing team's batter takes a swing. He did not let early setbacks affect his ability. "Our season started off rough, but as we progressed we started playing like a team and won some games," said Violante. 5 Senior John Lindberg watches and waits, preparing to eliminate an opposing player. He is a veteran to the varsity team. "As we have progressed as individuals, the team has been able to succeed as well," said Lindberg. 6 Sophomore Steve Rogge throws the ball home while warming up for an important game. He was pleased with both team's success, despite losses of morale and players. "The team really stuck together and played well even though we lost some key players to Varsity," said Rogge.

"I believe that we've all had a fun year, and I'm glad that we pulled together in the end."

A New Inning

This year the softball team was graced with fresh coaching talent in the form of Coach Jim Triesler. This change in leadership meant an inevitable change in team strategy. This year a greater number of JV players were brought up to play varsity game thus utilizing their talents and at the same time preparing them to be valuable members of future varsity teams.

❶ Coach Jim Triesler advises his players during a time out. "This year has been challenging yet fufulling," Triesler said. Coaching is a vital part of a successful team. ❷ Christen Short concentrates intently at first base. "Playing first base is challenging and exciting," Short said. ❸ Senior Kristen Clarke winds up to throw another strike. "Softball has been an important part of my high school experience," Clarke said. Good pitching is an integral part of a winning season. ❹ Kim Bowman fixes her shin guards during the game. "Playing softball this year has been a great learning experience. I hope to continue with softball next year," Bowman said. ❺ Kim Cox waits to field a ball. "I've enjoyed all the friendships I've made this year on the team," Cox said. ❻ Junior Melissa Nicosia steps up to the plate. "We had a lot of talent on the team this year. Because of the close friendships we were able to work well together," Nicosia said.

"Softball at Clover Hill has been a great experience. This year we've really come together as a team."

Striding to Victory

With a season full of endless workouts and competition, the track team continued to put forth their best effort. "I think we'll place very well in the qualifications from our competitions," Coach Litwak said. 1 Sophomore Christine Pearce and Freshman Meggy Tucker speed over hurdles as they advance to the finish line in the 100 meter hurdles. "It was an interesting year, and running hurdles was a highlight," said Pearce. 2 Freshman Noah Eisenberg tries to get a good start for his relay race. "It's a bunch of crazy guys running for fun. It was a great year," said Eisenberg. 3 Senior Trevor Pierce keeps fighting in order to help his relay team to a victory. "Whether we win or lose, track meets are a chance to meet new people and make friends with people with the same interest," said Pierce. 4 Sophomore Justin Kohut feels relaxed as he stretches to prepare for his race. "The coaches have all been very supportive this year; consequently, my abilities have improved a great deal," said Kohut. 5 Junior Emily Cuenin pushes her way to the finish to hand the baton to her teammate for a victory. "Running is a hard job, but I enjoy doing it when I get to hang out with my friends," said Cuenin. 6 Even with a hurt knee, Sophomore Chris Koon is still able to kick his way across the finish line. "I enjoy running track because I get to hang out with my friends and it's a break from school," said Koon.

All The Right Moves

The varsity men's soccer team had a rebuilding year. Despite their record, the team's skill still proved to be outstanding. 1 Junior Jason Schabacker shields the ball from his opponent. "Because we're such a young team, we've struggled, but we'll do well next year," Schabacker said. 2 Taking the ball up the field, Junior Travis French looks to score. "I looked at this season as more of a skill building year," French said. 3 Sophomore Matt Breeding controls the ball, keeping it from his opponent. "Being one of the younger guys on the team was difficult, but it made me work even harder," Breeding said. 4 Taking a breather, Sophomore Webb Estes looks on as his team plays. "We started off slow this year, but Mr. Anderson has united us into becoming one of the top teams in the district," Estes said. 5 The J.V. men's soccer team had an outstanding season this year, which was a result of the team's determination. After each game, the J.V. team discussed what improvements were needed. While listening to the coach, Sophomore Jared Smyser takes off his cleats. "We had a great season, but none of it would have been possible without the leadership of Coach Bader," Smyser said. 6 Sophomore Ben Hichack traps the ball as he approaches the goal. "We fought really hard throughout every game, and, despite tough circumstances, we never gave up," Hichack said. By the end of the season, both teams had all the right moves.

"It was a very productive year. We were young, but I thought we did quite well."

The girl's soccer teams' dedication to each other and to the game became evident as their victorious season came to an end. As the 2000 soccer season came to an end, the girls proved to be a dominant force in the district once again. 1 Junior Lauren Claytor prepares to make her move around the approaching defense. "This year the team is like a family and that helps us perform better," Claytor said. The team's closeness prepared them for the strength they needed in future tournaments. 2 Sophomore player Lauren Nofzinger attempted to defend the ball as her opponent tried unsuccessfully to make the steal. "This has been a great experience this year with new members and great talent on the team," Nofzinger said. 3 Heading towards the goal, Junior Aaron Jackson struggles to keep the ball under control. "This year has been a great soccer season not only because of our success on the field but also because of our closeness as a team," Jackson said. 4 Sophomore, defensive player, Kristen Pallotta races to keep the ball away from her goal. "We had a successful season this year because of all our team unity," Pallotta said. 5 Co-captains Senior Emily Sommer and Junior Lauren Claytor casually discuss strategies during practice. "This was a great season to end my high school soccer career," Sommer said. The Co-captains helped to lead the team to success. 6 Freshman Nicole Kessinger aggressively guards the ball. "Junior Varsity soccer was a great experience and being on the team helped boost my school spirit," Kessinger said.

"This year our team has been very close. We spend lots of time together both on and off the field. Being that this is my senior, I'm going to extremely miss each and every one on the team."

As spring time began, tennis promised to be the sport which could deliver one win after another. 1 Taking a break while watching his teammates, Senior Brian Cary chats with Coach Lloyd about the team's progress this season. "Coach Lloyd was a great influence on the team. She supported us through both our triumphs and defeats," Cary said. 2 During a doubles match, Senior Austin Kim and Sophomore Adam Van Ness focus on working together to take the lead. "The whole team worked as one this year; we were all closer as a group this year both on and off the court," Van Ness said. 3 Freshman Andrew Fauth takes a dive for the team while reaching low to save the match and bring the Cavaliers out on top. "Tennis was an awesome experience as a freshman!" Fauth said. 4 Towards the final minutes of his match, Sophomore Chris Grinell raises his racquet and prepares to return. "The team played well as a whole but it was great that we had six star players to aide the team," Grinell said. 5 In a defensive play, Junior Jack Chen sends the ball across the court as his teammates look on from the stands. "I enjoyed playng this year more than I have in the past because our team was extremely close this year," Chen said. 6 Awaiting his upcoming match, Sophomore Richard Rosendahl sits aside and begins to focus on his performance. "I feel my skills have improved greatly because I have had the opportunity to play with quality players," Rosendahl said. 7 Sophomore Gary Williams takes and aggressive swing to defend his team during a home match this spring. "This season has been great, and I look forward to my future years," Williams said.

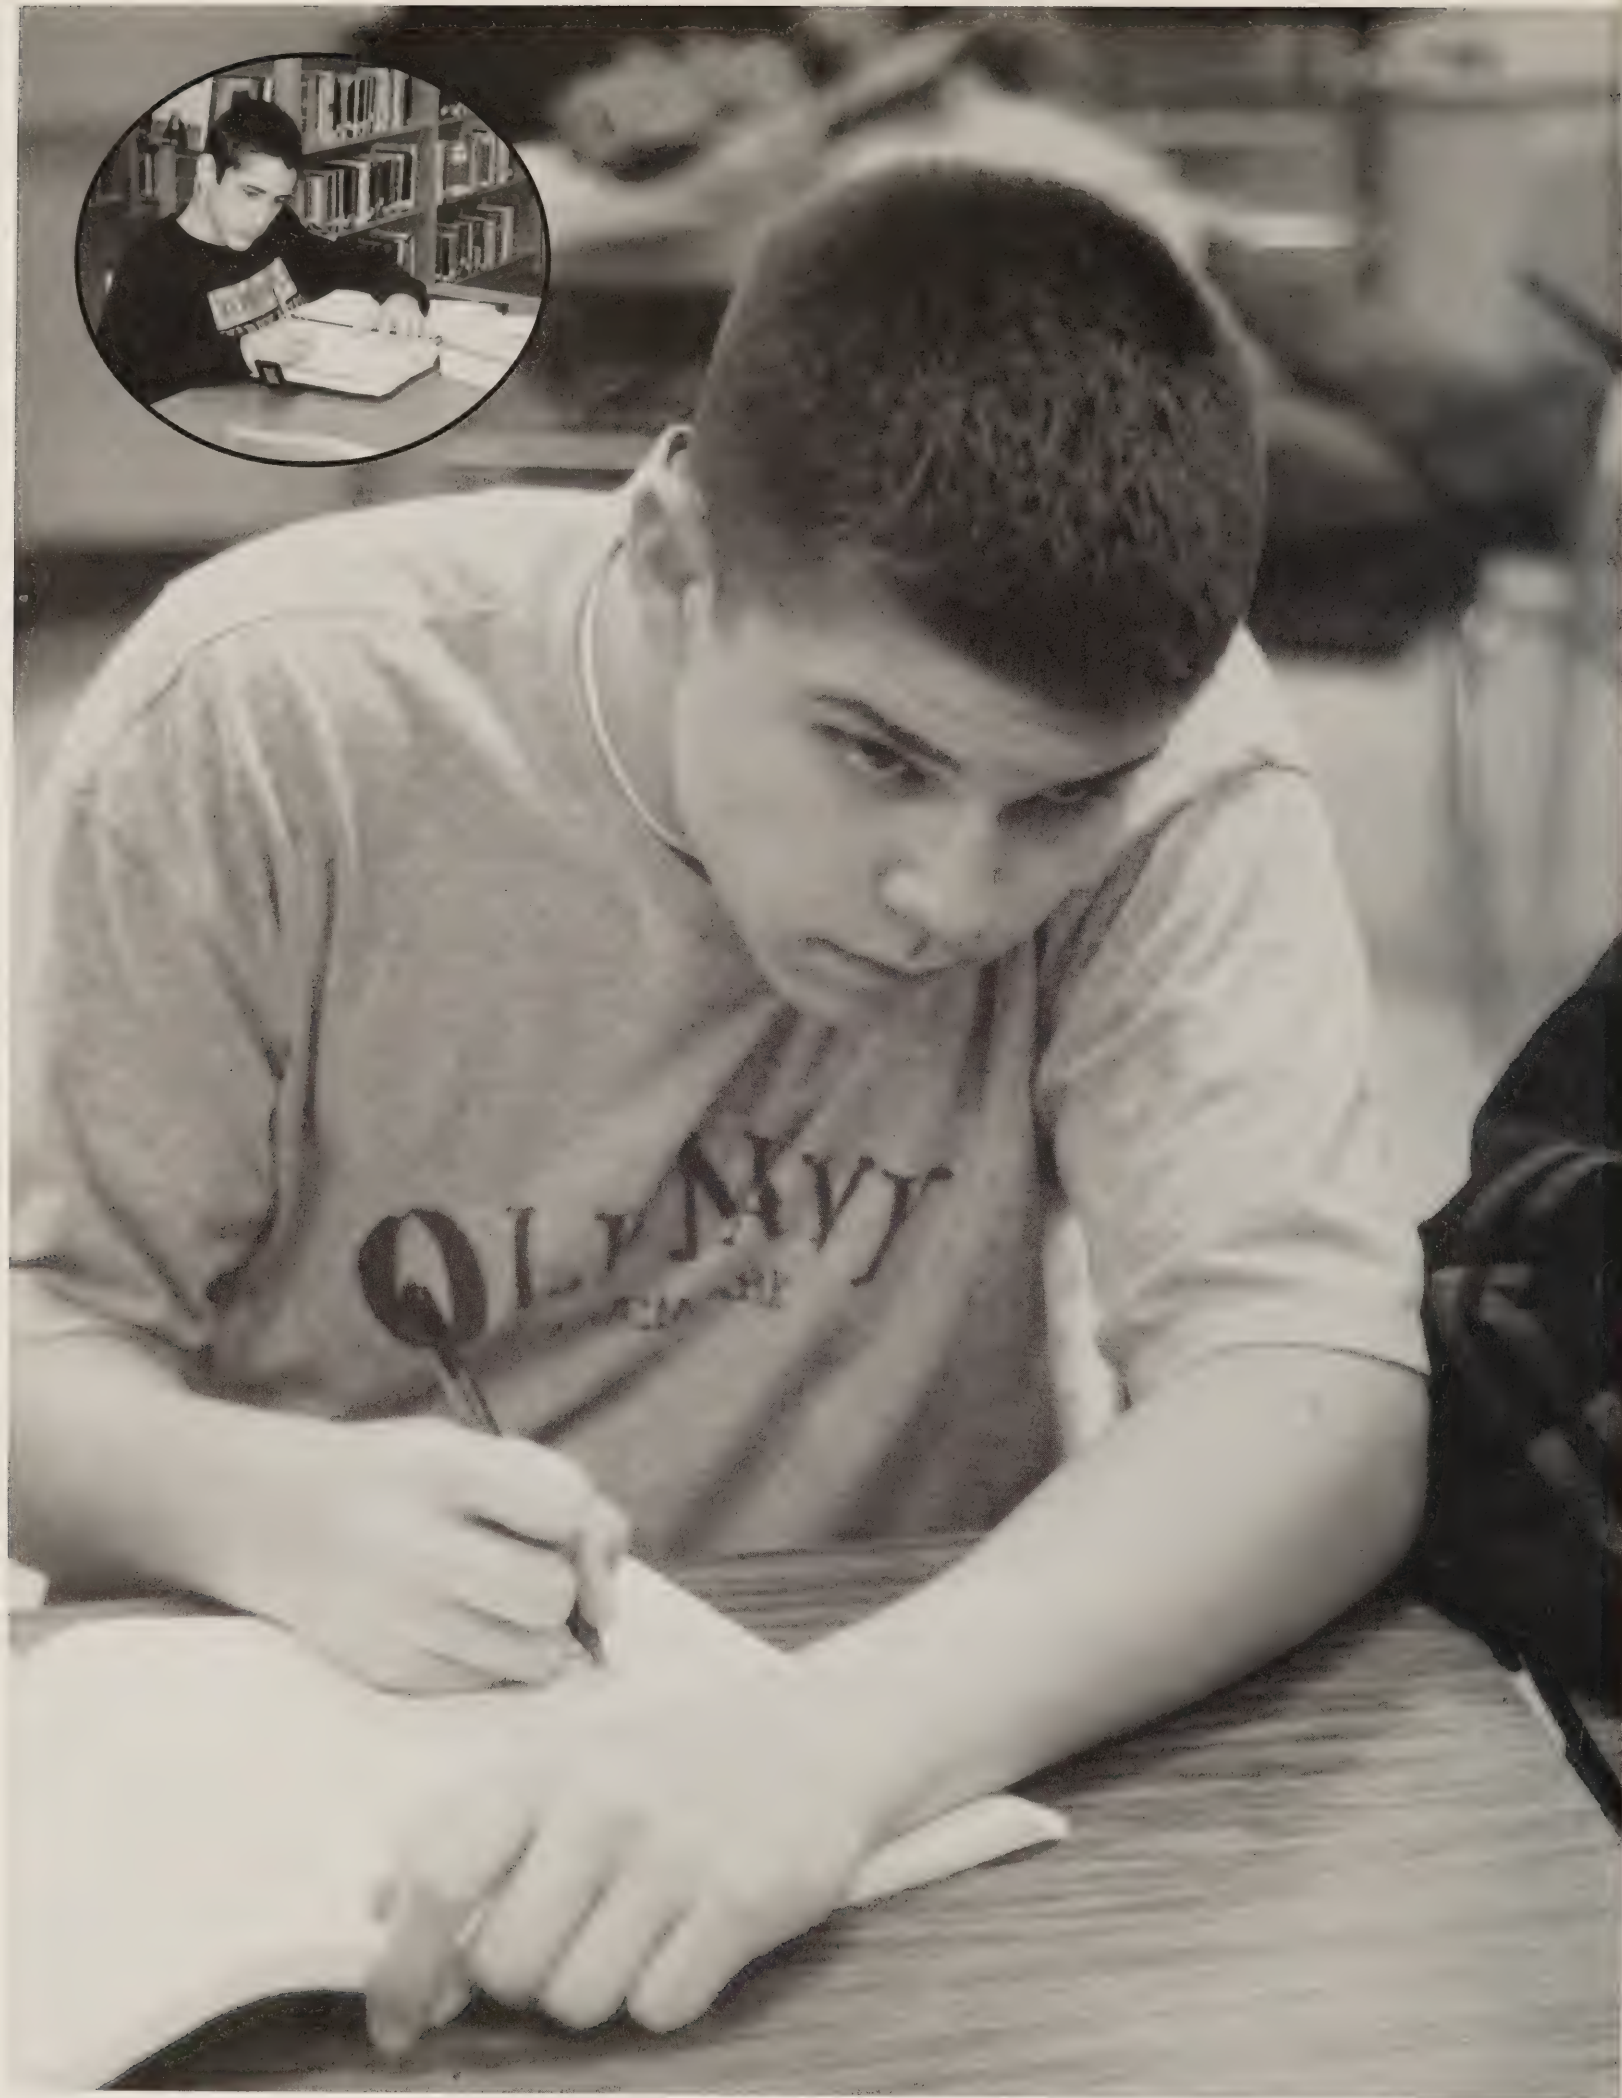

"Throughout my four years of playing tennis at Clover Hill, my senior year has been the most rewarding. I feel I am a leader to the younger players, and I have had the opportunity to improve my skills while being a member of a close and supportive team."

With all that high school can offer such as games, activities, plays, and fun, academics are the foundation of it all. Our school proves to be a school which excels in the area of academics with courses offered in nearly every subject imaginable. 1 During a group assignment, Junior Matt Kurz reads a passage from his English text book. "Working in groups can help to remove the pressure that is often placed upon a single students' shoulders," Kurz said. 2 History teacher Mr. Jim Triesler attempts to humor his class with his antics. "I love teaching at Clover Hill because our student body and staff are always striving for perfection," Triesler said. 3 Sophomore Brooke Bredel takes time to study before a rough day of school. "My comical Winnie the Pooh book covers help to relieve the tension and anxiety that school can place on me," Bredel said. 4 While completing her math homework, Senior Kelly McCall utilizes her graphing calculator to assist solving a problem. "Graphing calculators are great because it takes a lot less mental power to get the answer," McCall said. 5 As Sean Nicholson works to set up his physics project for Dr. Boothe's class he pauses to offer some words of wisdom. "I like to be prepared for the "hard" ships that school can throw at us," Nicholson said. In addition to the many courses offered at our school, John Tyler Community College offered two opportunities to take college credit classes in high school.

6 Senior Carrie Hanayik reads a selection in her Dual Enrollment English class. "I'm glad I took Dual Enrollment English because it gave me a head start in my college credit hours," Hanayik said. All of the academic core courses are the foundation of a student's future, not only in proceeding high school years, but in college as well.

7 English teacher Mrs. Lyons explains a selection to her Dual Enrollment English students. "I am grateful that I am able to teach the subject that I love to an array of grades and different types of students, I learn more from them than I do in my lessons," Lyons said.

Arts, crafts, and photography: these classes comprise the high schools visual arts department. Higher levels of education become available as students refine their skills. No matter what course the student is enrolled, creativity is the theme dominate among theses artists. 1 Freshmen Megan Tuck displays different aspects of her character through her art. "Art is a way for me to express myself in a way that most people don't see," said Tuck. She felt that without having art in her life, this side of her would not exist. 2 Freshman Keri Thompson is currently enrolled in her first year of art. Regardless, art has still been present in her life in previous years. "Art is a great way to utilize my creative side," said Thompson. 3 Junior Vanessa Morgan is a second year art student, she believes it will benefit her in future endeavors. "I think art gives people a chance to express their creativity. I hope to use it in advertising," said Morgan. 4 Junior James Palmer has become more artistically proficient over the years. "I didn't feel like art was my best quality at first, but I think my skills have improved a great deal," said Palmer. He was a prime example of how beneficial experience can be. 5 Sophomore Carrie Whitaker is an Art II student. She appreciates the fact that the curriculum is not limited to the classroom. "I love working with nature so my favorite thing about art is the freedom to work outdoors," said Whitaker. 6 "The different activities we do in art guild are really fun," said Sophomore Hongsoo Ko. Art guild is responsible for many of the props seen in public events. 7 Senior Katie Savage is capable of making an otherwise boring piece of furniture stand out. "I enjoy crafts because it gives me a chance to take a break from the classroom and have fun using my imagination to create a masterpiece," said Savage. She enjoyed making something with her hands that previously existed only in her mind. Art classes provided many students with a unique way to express themselves and at the same time show off their creativity.

Although physical education and technology education deal with extremely different areas of study, they are both offered as electives in addition to the core classes. 1 Senior Michael Marlowe drafts a sketch of his latest Tech-Ed project. "I enjoy working on projects in Tech-Ed because I know that I will use these skills later on in life," said Marlowe. He has participated in various Tech-Ed classes over the years. 2 Sophomore Matt Bryant talks with his partner about upcoming endeavors. "Despite being challenging at times, this class is pretty laid back. I wish I could take it another year," said Bryant. 3 Junior Seneca Contomanolis concentrates diligently on his work during class. "It is a challenge to prepare for a future engineering career," Contomanolis said. Many students use these courses to prepare for future classes in college. 4 In order to graduate, every student must take two years of Gym. Freshman Steven Curd-Strickler retrieves the pickleball after winning the play. "Pickleball is a fun way to relax and have a good time during gym," said Curd-Strickler. 5 Palmer Hollister watches a demonstration of pickleball by his teachers. "Mr. Lowery and Mr. Llewellyn compete during class in most of the sports that we learn," said Hollister. 6 Freshman Jonathan O'Brien anxiously awaits the serve during an intense game of pickleball. "I like sporting the green and white socks because it adds character to my bland gym suit," said O'Brien. 7 Freshman Mike Dean takes a break to tie his shoes before beginning a rigorous game of pickleball. "Tying my shoes gives me time to take a breather during a vigorous Gym class... you know it's really fast paced and sometimes you just have to stop and catch your breath," said Dean. During the pickleball unit for Freshman classes, they learned many aspects of the game. They learned that this game, half tennis and half ping-pong, can be enjoyed by those who are not good at either.

Our school is known for its superior music department. From band and orchestra, to chorus and jazz, we excel in every category. 1 Front and center Senior Stephanie Ferguson, Junior Jabare Brown, and Senior Holly Shepherd thrill the audience with their outstanding showmanship. "The friendship and togetherness that this group has is phenomenal. I really love this class," Brown said. 2 The performers of Clover Hill's choirs have adjusted well to the new director. Junior Erik Powellson and Senior Sarah Post sing to each other and Post remarked "Acropolis is a great class, it's a talented group of singers. Mr. Lawson is an excellent director who makes singing fun." 3 Juniors Tyler McCall, EJ, and Mark Donahue has been involved in music for all three years in high school. "I've participated in the Marching Band, Symphonic band, and Jazz Band, it's been a lot of fun," Donahue said. Donahue intends to be a part of the music program his senior year as well. 4 Junior Christine Mann enjoys her first year in chorus. "You would never know from the quality of the concerts that we have a new director," Mann said. 5 Flying high Junior Stefanie Schulman dazzles the audience while Seniors Jamie Downing and Brittany Keene look on. "The friendships in Iridescence helps us to perform at our maximum height. The group has left me with a lasting impression of how friendship and teamwork should be," Schulman said. 6 The Orchestra students work hard and still maintain a friendly and eager approach to the class. "Orchestra has been a great experience, it has given me a chance to meet new people, and learn how to work well in a group atmosphere," said Sophomore Heather Lane. 7 Sophomore David Emery and Junior Matt Lynch play a tune in their Jazz Band class. The class was practicing Christmas classics for the upcoming concert.

Challenging, yet fulfilling, the foreign language department involves many students. Whether it be Spanish, French, German, Japanese, or Latin, students have a wide variety of choices of which language to take. These classes give students the opportunity to explore the rest of the world. 1 Seniors Jamie Downing and Alex Bailey works on an exercise in his Spanish textbook. "Taking Spanish is important because I hope to travel to Spain one day," Bailey said. Many students enroll in a language with the dream of travelling abroad in the future. 2 Junior Ricky Franklin writes his French homework on the board. "French is fun because we play games, my favorite being typewriter," Franklin said. Games are a good way to learn a language while still having fun. 3 Seniors Yuka Hirose and Renee Watson prepares for the start of her Japanese class. "When I began taking Japanese in the 7th grade, I had no idea I would have any practical use for it. But this past summer when I went to Japan, it was amazing to be able to communicate with people half way across the world," Watson said. 4 Senior Nancy Brothers works on her Japanese pronunciation. "The small size of our Japanese class has really been a great learning environment," Brothers said. The developing Japanese economy makes it an important language to take. 5 Junior Aaron Cook studies his German textbook during a class lecture. "I'm 99% German so I took the class to explore my heritage," Cook said. Taking a foreign language can help you discover your family's history. 6 Junior Jackie Stoer diligently completes a Spanish worksheet. "Knowing a language such as Spanish will give me confidence when I travel in the future," Stoer said. Learning a foreign language opens up the rest of the world for travel. 7 Junior Emily Cuenin works to complete a Spanish test. The Math and Science High School gives students opportunities to excel beyond normal standards. The hard work students put forth produces a hard working student who yearns to achieve at even the highest level. 1 Sleep-deprived Junior Sheila Dawes catches up on her Z's. "Teachers keep me on my toes during classes", Dawes said. Dawes manages to play two Varsity sports a year while juggling the demanding academic schedule. 2 Even though she's in Math and Science, Sophomore Angela Deese still enjoys chorus. "I still have time for extra activities," Deese said. Many of the students in Math and Science take advantage of Clover Hill as their home school and participate in the clubs, choruses, bands, orchestras, academic teams, and sports. 3 While finishing a test, Junior Caroline Renkin takes a break. "No matter how hard I study, it's still challenging", Renkin said. One of the more difficult aspects of Math and Science is that the teachers in this program expect the highest quality of work; additionally, they teach in a style which challenges the students to learn the material on their own in preparation for college. 4 Freshman Becky Prior listens during class. "It's very different from what I expected," Prior said. Students often think of Math and Science as a separate high school, in a separate part of the building, but both schools are integrated so the Math and Science students tend to feel just as much a part of Clover Hill as they do of Math and Science. 5 Since the eighty Math and Science students of each grade share the same four classes each year, they get to know each other very well. Even though Junior Keith Bachman jokes around with classmates, he never forgets the hard work that is put on his shoulders. "I think the decision to be part of Math and Science has affected my life. It's become a group of tight-knit people that I've gotten to know really well," Bachman said. 6 One of the perks of being involved with Math and Science is that all the students are together so much that they feel comfortable around each other and share inside jokes. During a group activity, Junior Eric Powelsson argues his point to Juniors Matt Stanley, Lauren Tipton, and Stephen Marek. "Even though the classes are rigorous, there's always time to have fun," Powelsson said. 7 Freshman Eric Davis studies his English vocabulary for Mrs. DeCair's class. "I'm glad I made the decision to attend Clover Hill," Davis said. Math and Science is definitely a challenge, but the hard work is well worth its development of social skills, character, time management skills, a good work ethic, and a competitive, yet positive attitude.

ience... It's a country... It's a road trip... It's a committee.

Most school-related activities take place for a few hours after school. However, Model United Nations lasts weekends at a time at various colleges around the state. ❶ Senior Jenny Graves and Junior Katharine Schweighardt relax in their luxurious William & Mary dorm room. "What is Model UN? It's a chance for 'motivated' students to engage in debates about current political issues. It's also an excused school field trip," said Schweighardt. ❷ Model U.N., besides being a lot of fun, gives students the chance to work in realistic political situations. Juniors Matt Huster and J.J. Frankovich discuss important international affairs. "It gives me a chance to act out in an atmosphere that's so much more real than school can ever be," said Huster. ❸ Model United Nations also helps students build the bonds of friendship. Seniors Brendan O'Neill and Austin Kim concentrate on a political issue. "Model U.N. was really fun this year because there were a lot more people involved, so I met many new people," said Kim. ❹ Juniors Justin Ward and Daniel Genovese share a moment during a weekend conference. "I'm glad I participated in this because it allowed me to see if I want to explore politics in the future," said Ward. The students can work up an appetite having so much fun. ❺ Juniors Michah Shaperjahn and Mat Teasley take a snack break. "Model U.N. makes you work, but it's cool because you get breaks to eat and talk," said Schaperjahn. ❻ Juniors Daniel Genovese and Michah Shaperjahn goof off between sessions. "Sometimes committee can get a little boring..." said Genovese. ❼ The students can work up an appetite having so much fun. Model U.N. is not all hard core politics; at night the members of the Clover Hill delegation let loose at karaoke. Seniors Becca Koepfle, Vicky Jones, and Shruti Basavaraj take control of the microphone. "It's a lot of government affiliated work but we have fun too," said Koepfle. Overall, Model U.N. is a way to meet new people and explore roles in politics.

I really enjoy doing Model UN because I get to meet new people and convince them to vote for my resolutions.
-Beth Head, 12

Model UN was cool because I got to hang out with Math/Science people and feel smart.
-Brendan O'Neill, 12

Model UN was a rewarding experience because I got to meet so many people from other schools.

Many people become nervous when speaking in front of a large audience. The speech and drama classes help many to overcome this fear. Through various communication exercises, skits, and speeches, students learn the skills needed to remain confident during public speaking and dramatic performances. 1 To engage the attention and interest of the class, Senior Sarah Post and Junior Shelby Black incorporate dramatic expression into their presentation. "Communications is a good way to express yourself," Black said. 2 Senior Chris Mattera perfects his speaking skills in Mr. Triesler's communications class one morning. "Forensics has played such an integral role in my high school career. For the past 4 years I've had the opportunity to travel and compete with some of the finest people I've ever known," Mattera said. 3 To add a little fun to an already enjoyable class, Senior Travis Bacille plays with the headphones. "Communications is a great class but why do I take it? Shhhh... don't you worry your pretty little head about that. It ain't your concern," Bacille said. 4 Sophomore Angie Schultz reviews her lines for the portrayal of her character in a short skit. "Theater isn't that funny when you're living in a van down by the river-no really, it's an enlightening experience!" said Schultz. 5 Theater is a class which requires concentration and confidence, and pictured here Freshman Megan Green strikes a pose in her acting debut. "Theater is just a good experience. It teaches you to get up in front of people and perform," Green said. 6 Sitting in his class, Junior Eric Powlesson listens attentively to the historical background and the different techniques of theater. "Theater is a good background for what I want I plan to do in college," Powlesson said. 7 Freshman Kaitlin Lord stays comfortable while performing a skit in the auditorium in front of her peers. "I enjoy theater because it teaches you to get up in front of people and do things you normally wouldn't do," Lord said.

"AP Government is challenging, but I feel as if I am learning a lot."
-Cheryl Haner, 12

"AP classes are good because you don't have to take as many classes in college."
-Becca Koepf, 12

"AP classes are a lot easier when you do your homework."
-Brian Broxterman, 12

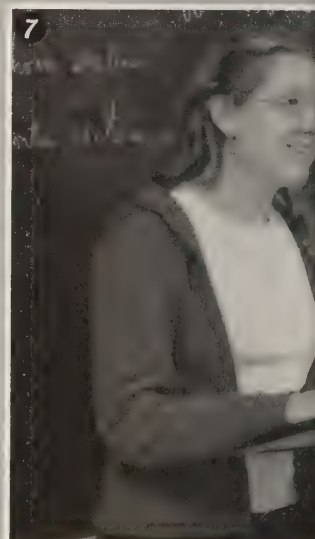

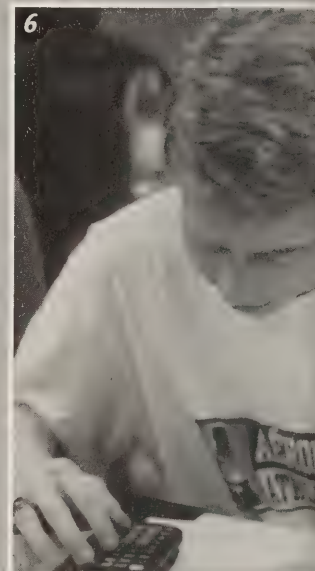

"AP classes aren't much fun if you are a slacker."
-Andy Krukiel, 11

AP classes were created for the purpose of allowing students to get a leg up on college by taking their courses in high school and then getting credit for them. Many students take advantage of these classes and some are even able to enter college as sophomores. They are slightly more rigorous than regular high school classes, and, since the AP tests are in May, they move at a faster pace. 1

Senior Chris Mattera listens intently in his AP Government class. "Mrs. Mill's AP Government class helps give me an in-depth understanding of the way the government works," Mattera said. Many students comment on the depth of the knowledge they receive from their AP classes. 2 Junior Ryan Webb takes notes in his AP Statistics class. "AP classes are challenging and I'm learning a lot," Webb said. By taking an AP exam, students hope to place out of classes in college.

3 Mr. Chris Averill lectures his AP U.S. History class about expansionism and its affect on America. "I enjoy teaching an AP history class because it allows me to delve into the many intricacies that are found in the study of history," Averill said. Many students attribute Mr. Averill's challenging yet beneficial class to doing well on the AP U.S. History exam. 4 Seniors Chris Cooper, Paul Haasch, and Cheryl Haner listen to a lecture in AP Composition class. "For the most part I enjoy AP Comp, although it is a lot of work," Cooper said. Clover Hill is the only school in the county to offer both AP English Literature and AP Composition.

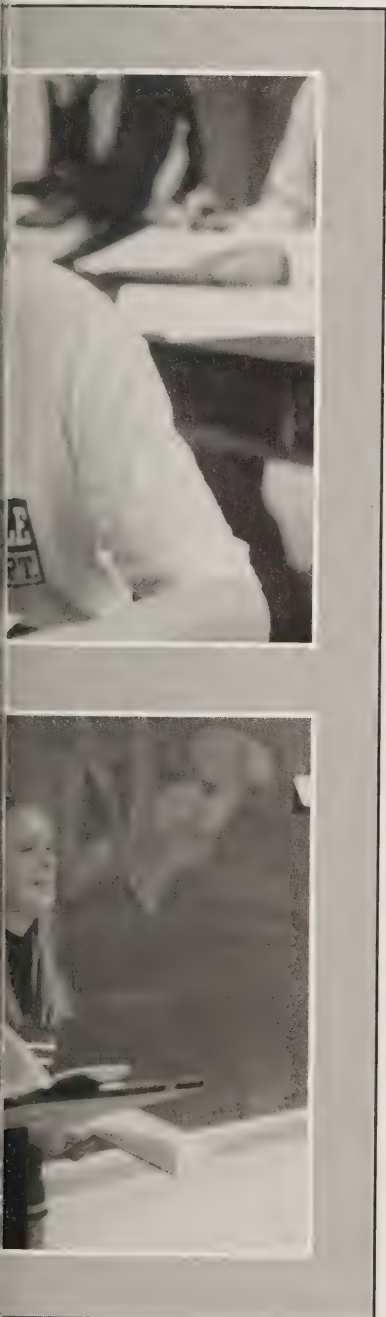

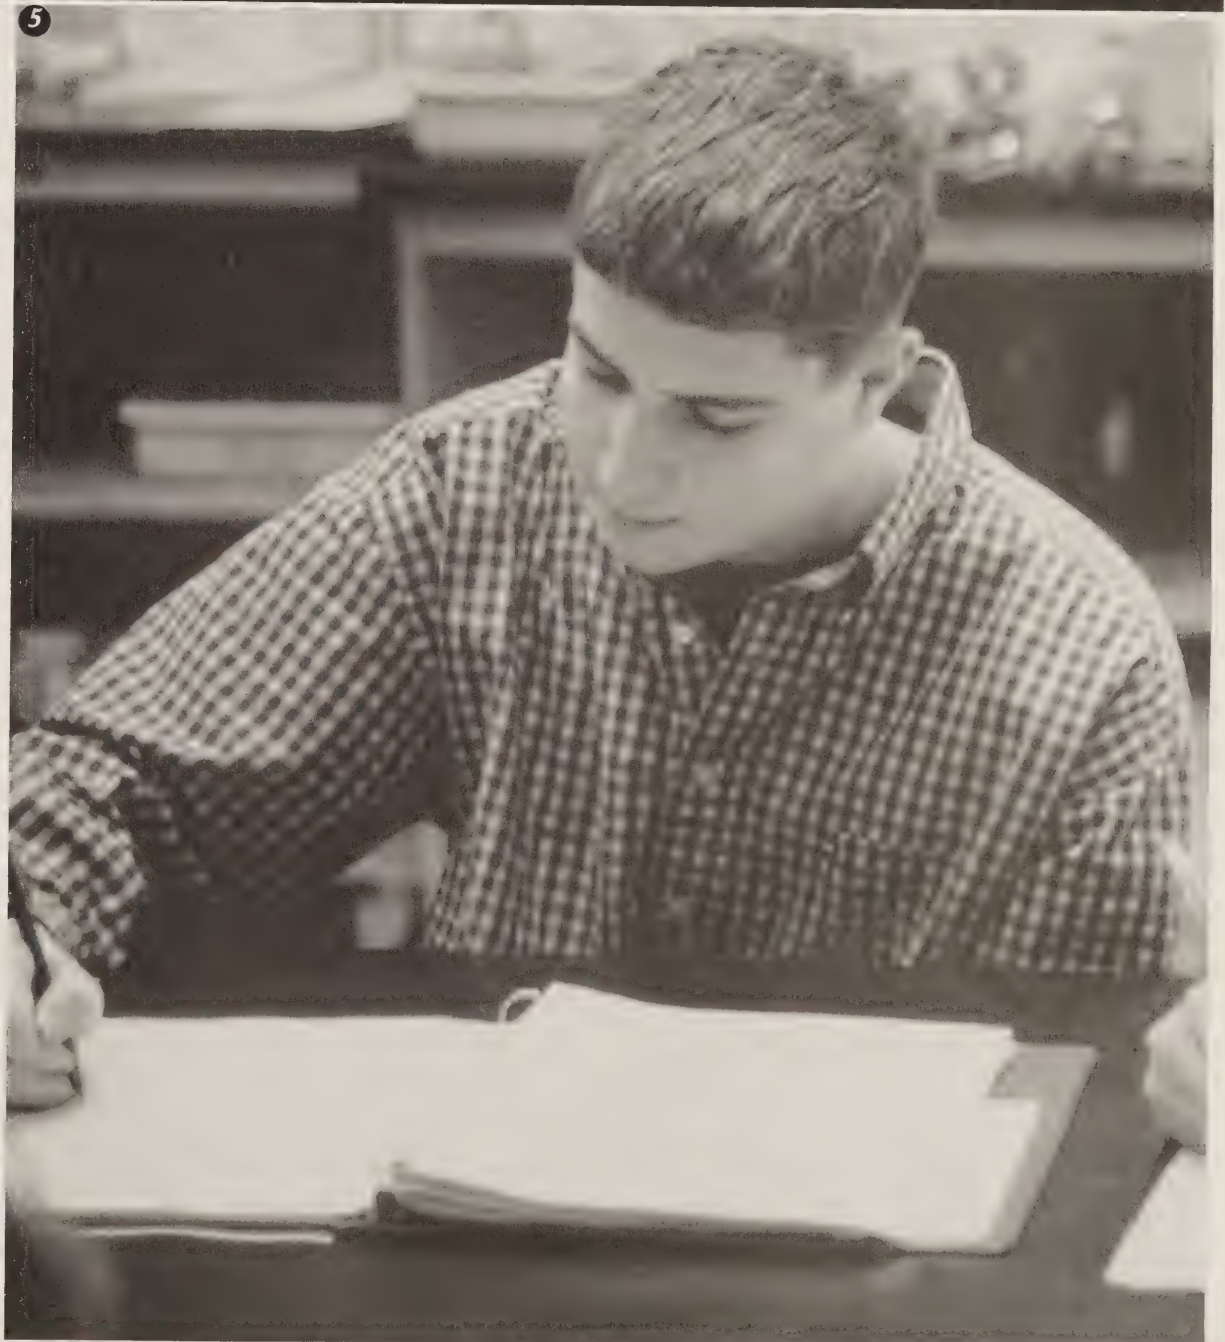

5 Senior Robert Braden works dilligently to solve problems on a practice AP Chemistry test. "AP classes help me learn better because they force me to remember things I learned in past years," Braden said. AP classes further the learning process by combining elements from many other classes. 6 Junior Lee Adcock uses his graphing calculator during a test in AP Chemistry. "Chemistry is fun because it isn't too strict but we learn a lot," Adcock said. Clover Hill offers a wide variety of AP science classes. 7 Seniors Nancy Brothers and Lauren Kessinger present a project to their AP Composition class. "We do a lot of writing in AP Comp., but it is interesting because we can choose our own topics," Brothers said. AP classes prepare students for college.

The areas of computer and business emphasize a range of classes that prepare students for job opportunities in the business world in the future. These courses which are taken in high school help build the path to successful careers in the marketing and computer fields. It is expected that in the near future, a knowledge of these fields will be a crucial foundation for all careers. 1 Freshman Ebony White types during class. "I took this class because I needed a business credit, and I wanted to get it out of the way so that in the years to come I can take classes that are more fun." White said. 2 Marketing and Careers teacher Mr. Martin keeps busy helping with after school activities, while teaching classes as well. "I love teaching... I feel it takes a special type of person to teach careers, and I feel that I really get to know my students because this is a class where students explore who they are." Martin said. 3 Freshman Derrick Hanks works diligently to complete his assignment. "I usually work hard in class because it pays off when report cards come." Hanks said. 4 Senior Mike Roscoe busily copies sentences from his computer text book. Roscoe commented that "it's hard not to look at your fingers or screen when you type, but Ms. Zirkle tries to teach her students the correct form." 5 Seniors Philip Keck and Debra Lee Letchford work together on a careers project. "I like Careers because it helps me learn about careers that may suit me and my own interests for a future career," said Letchford. 6 Junior Charlie Jones takes a break from typing in his C++ class to discuss his work with a classmate, "Although C++ is a challenging class, it is also a time to socialize with friends," Jones said. 7 Junior Rickie Franklin looks on his neighbors computer during class. "In computer, I can not only get my work done, but I can talk at the same time, because its that type of class." Franklin said.

It's not only in sports that you find team effort. Newspaper and Literary Magazine have displayed this quality as well. Both groups combine creative ideas and their editorial skills to produce unique publications for the student body to enjoy. 1 Sophomores Nick Rimmel and Chris Ray try to sell ads to various businesses. Ads are essential in providing money to produce the school's newspaper. "I like it because you're a part of the team trying to accomplish something," Rimmel said. 2 Sophomore Matt Breeding works diligently on his copy while awaiting the assistance of Senior editor Sarah Faris, as she helps Sophomore Brook Bredel. "I get a lot of help from more experienced people in the class," Breeding said. 3 Conversing over literary submissions, Juniors Danielle Karnes and Mandi Sligh work together by deciding which works will be included in the publication. "The Literary Magazine staff works so hard for this project. The magazine is a collection of student art and writings; it can help other students identify with the school on a deeper level," Sligh said.

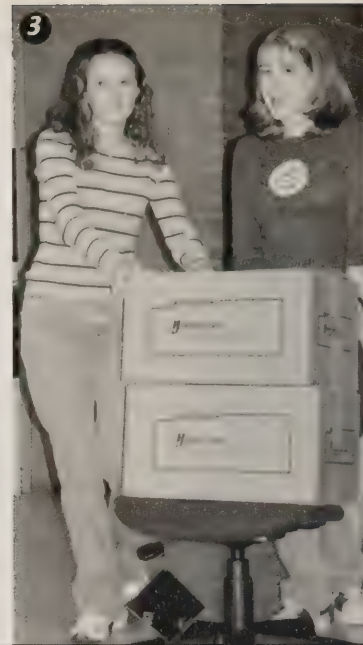

4 Sponsor Denise Haley, editor-in-chief, Courtney Magill and staff member Christine Mann edit the most recent newspaper. "This year newspaper went through a lot of changes because we altered the format to computers," Magill said. 5 While reviewing a submission to the literary magazine, Junior Mark Delboy releases the tension by acting goofy. "It passes the time because we are so busy going over what has been submitted," Delboy said. 6 Junior Matt Huster and Sophomore Trevor Thompson work together to put an article on the computer. "It gives me a chance to do things I enjoy: writing and publishing," Huster said. 7 A dedicated member, Junior Lauren Trimmer sacrifices her afternoon to contribute to the school's literary magazine. "It's really neat to see what people write and to see the wide variety of topics," Trimmer said.

"I enjoy being on Yearbook so I can better remember my senior year."

-Kate Bourdow, 12

"Yearbook gave me the chance to meet new people through getting quotes and writing stories."

-Melissa Nicotia, 11

"Even though Yearbook requires work and is sometimes stressful during deadlines, it is always interesting work that is not taxing to the brain."

-Jan Pinkston, 10

"Yearbook is a fun class because it lets me express my creative side."

-Lauren Claytor, 11

"Yearbook was a completely new experience for me but it quickly became my favorite class."

-Tim Capel, 10

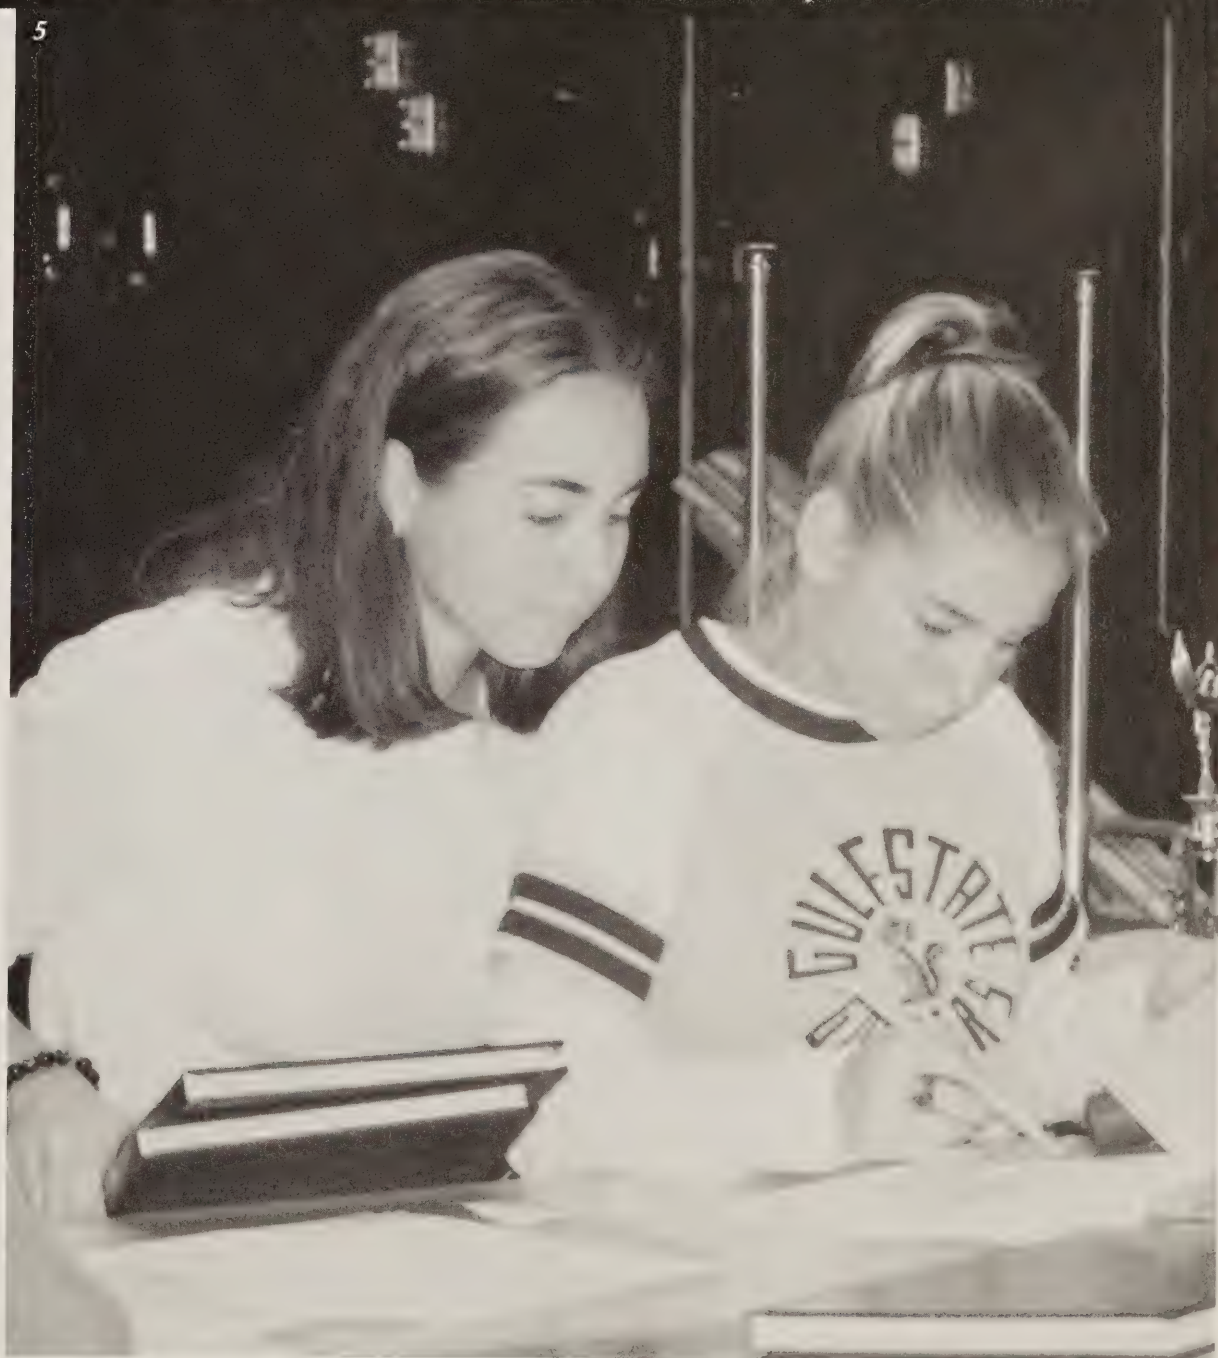

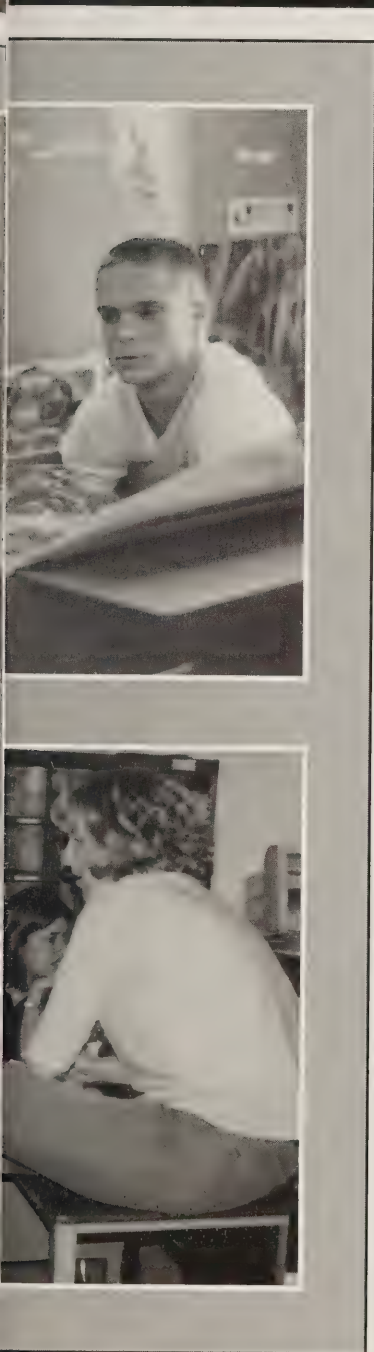

Working on the final yearbook of the century was a challenging and rewarding project that only few students could be a part of. The chosen members of the yearbook staff worked overtime to successfully complete the book. 1 While preparing to tag a picture, Senior Megan Smith hurries to finish a story before an important deadline. "Yearbook is my favorite class this year. There is never a dull moment," Smith said. 2 While handing out yearbooks, Seniors Melissa Buckley, Beth Head, and Junior Liz Clarke took time to smile at the camera. "One of the things that I enjoy most about yearbook is seeing the reactions of the students when we pass out the books from the previous year," Head said. 3 Junior Editors Danielle Karnes and Meredith Rizzo help carry yearbooks down to the cafeteria while having fun in the halls. "This year I transported yearbooks through the halls; I was promoted," Karnes said. Being "promoted" from staff to editor was a privilege that some second year yearbook students received. 4 Sophomore Lindsay Marshall puts the finishing touches on a new layout. "This class has been a great place to meet new people and create a great yearbook," said Marshall. Making a layout was the first step in creating a new story and helped staff members plan where to place the pictures and copy. 5 Junior Editors Liz Clarke and Karen Zatulak handed out yearbooks to excited students. "I am very anxious for the next year and the opportunity to make the yearbook one which includes everything the students want," Zatulak said. 6 Taking control when males were needed, Sophomore Steve Rogge and Senior Tobin Walker help the class by unpacking new computers. "Being one of the few males in the class, it's hard to be a part of the conversation when everyone's talking about 'female issues'," Walker said. 7 Discussing future stories, Seniors Lindsay Harris and Suzanne Coggins agree the yearbook is fun, but time consuming. "Even though during deadline time yearbook can be stressful, overall it is fun when we have time to just hang out and take a break from documenting the memories for the school," Harris said. Deadlines kept the class on track and made the work more focused on what they had to do. The yearbook staff and editors worked together to make this a successful yearbook.

The day you came into our lives.
We're proud of you Son,
Of the person you've become
Of the accomplishments that you've made
Of the future we know you will have
In these few short years, you have touched
So many people, sharing kindness, friendship,
Love and understanding
Stay true to yourself and remember
If you dream the dream its there for the taking

How you live and how you
fly,
The smiles you give and tears
you'll cry,
All you touch and all you see,
Is all your life will ever be

We love you

Mom and Dad

Megan,

Our wish for you...
 Not merely to look, but see
 Not just to listen, but hear
 Not just to experience, but enjoy!
 Congratulations!

Love,
 Dad, Mom, Jeff, Nicholas, Rodman and Sophie

*As one door closes, a new one opens before you.
 Pause briefly at this new threshold, and know that what you are leaving behind is good. Approach this new door with great confidence, knowing as you pass through that things will be different around you... but the inner you, where the courage is, where the love is, where the dreams and faith are, will never change. Open each new door with trust, knowing that this world is waiting for a young man with the energy and talents you possess. Remember that we have always been and always will be here for you.*

*We Love you, Jon!
 Dad, Mom, Andrew and Jenna*

Congratulations Cary!

You spread happiness wherever you go. What a blessing you are in our lives! We are proud of you and we love you very much.

Congratulations, Travis!

We are so proud of you and all of your accomplishments. You have given us so much joy and laughter.

Take all of your God given talents and live your dreams. Entertain the world! Enjoy who you are and all that you do.

All our love,
Dad, Mom, Gus, Rachel,

What is Life?
 Life is a gift.... accept it
 Life is an adventure.... dare it
 Life is a mystery.... unfold it
 Life is a game.... play it
 Life is a struggle.... face it
 Life is a beauty.... praise it
 Life is an opportunity.... take it
 Life is sorrowful.... experience it
 Life is a goal.... achieve it
 Life is a mission.... fulfill it!

Emily,

*We've been proud of you since the day you

18 years. Where have they gone?

They have seen joy and heartache, laughter and tears.

They have seen familiar places fade and new places become home.

They have seen the first day of school, the first kiss, and the first dance.

They have seen braces go on and braces come off your teeth.

They have seen karate, soccer and lacrosse.

They have seen friends come into and friends leave your life.

They have seen the beauty of the world you have around you.

They have seen a most amazing little girl develop into a most amazing woman.

They have seen the end of the first phase of your life and They are looking at the beginning of a new adventure in your life.

We know that love has carried you through the past 18 years
And we know love will carry you through forever.

With all our love,
Mom & Earl
Dad & Sheena

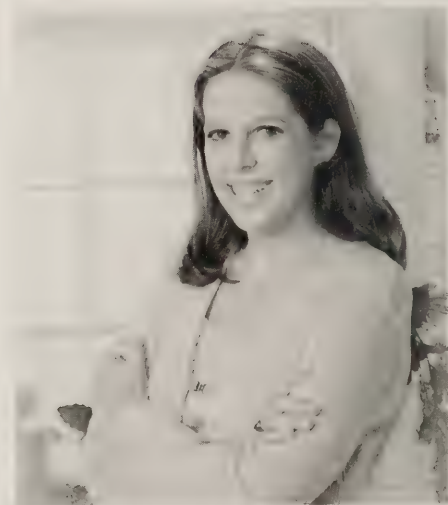

Stephanie,

We are so proud of you and your accomplishments. The future has much more to offer and remember that we will always be here to love, support and care for you.

Love Always,

A "Beautiful Little Girl" came into our lives...
Full of persistence from the very first day,
With a "Da" who caters to her every wish...
She learns how to get her way!
With a "Mama" always there to guide her...
She learns devotion in living a dream,
With a "Big Brother" always aggravating her...
She learns to be sassy and mean!
With an entire "Family" who adores her...
She learns to be loving and caring,
With "Friends" who stand by her side...
She learns about the value of sharing!
With "Experience" from the past "17" years...
She has learned about happiness and strife,
A "Beautiful Young Lady" stands before us now...

You are so special to us. It is a privilege to be your parents and to observe you growing into the Godly, intelligent, wise, loving, and gentle young woman God plans for you to be. We are naturally proud of all your accomplishments, but more than proud, we're grateful that you've chosen God's way to live your life because He always knows best. We can only strive, though not always successfully, to follow Christ's will for our lives.

Be blessed, our wonderful,
Precious, "Baby Girl."
We'll always love you,

Most people think that parents shape their children; however, in our case, it has been you that has shaped us. Your desire to be good at whatever you do has inspired us to not only help you, but to be better at whatever we do, especially at being your parents. When God chose Noah as the one to build the ark and his family to re-populate the earth, He gave us only three reasons for choosing Noah; they were that he was a righteous man, blameless among the people, and he walked with God. So in everything that you do always be righteous, blameless among the people, and walk with God. Thank you for your inspiration. We'll love you....

.....forever.

Elizabeth,

Almost eighteen years ago we announced, "Our new star is born and our whole world is brighter!" You are still our star and the world is still brighter because of your presence in it.

We are so proud of all of your accomplishments, achieved through your courage to take on new challenges, your willingness to work hard and your perseverance to reach your goals.

Always keep reaching for the stars, Beth. We love you!

Students blasted off the new school year with the theme of Outer Space. Spirit Week united the classes with the hallway competition, an exciting Powder Puff game, and the pep rally to fight for the coveted Spirit Stick. The Seniors won the hallway competition, while they tied with the Junior girls at Powder Puff. However, the Juniors broke tradition when they won the Spirit Stick. The week ended with the enjoyable Homecoming Dance where students danced the night away.

Although many of Clover Hill's successful traditions continued, this year there was one new important addition. Dr. Brenda Mayo stepped up to the job of the school's principal. Dr. Mayo contributed new and memorable experiences to student life, such as the Celebration of Unity.

With the advance of the new millennium, computers threatened to cause numerous problems across the country. Students, teachers, and community alike prepared for the worst, but the school flowed smoothly into the new millennium. Instead of worrying about computer crashes, students partied into 2000.

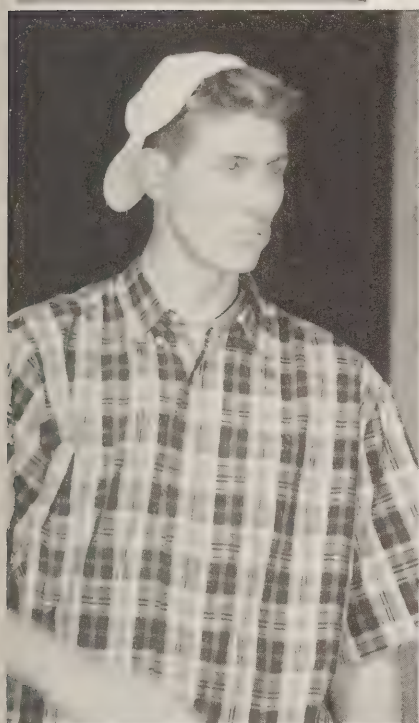

The Blizzard of 2000 both surprised and excited students. Usually with snow and ice, a school day or two is cancelled; however, this year the storm allowed students to miss over two weeks of classes and came with perfect timing - the snow cancelled all mid-term exams!

It's a team effort... It's a sold out show... It's a last

On all the sports teams this year, students showed both their athletic skill as well as their good sportsmanship. Athletes strove to fight to represent the school, and stars shown brightly as their coaches led them to victory.

This year the drama department kicked off the amazing fall musical The Wizard of Oz. While Dorothy, the Lion, the Scarecrow, and the Tin-Man graced the stage, the Cavalier Players' next production, Our Town, was enjoyed by students. Finally, the Senior Show, Once Upon a Mattress, ended the school year with humor.

As the school year came to a close, students found themselves anxious and eager for the summer. Prom was a memorable and fun night for juniors and seniors, creating an unforgettable experience. Seniors enjoyed their special activities, such as the Cookout, Pool Party, and Banquet. As the days wound down to graduation, exams stressed underclassmen and seniors enjoyed their bittersweet last days.
